They Don't Want the Old People . . .

By BOB PETERSON

Hermann Rothenbusch is not an offensive sort.

By most standards, he'd be termed above average. He's a young married graduate architect.

However, judging from the reaction he's received with what he's proposed in Pacifica, it would appear he's a radical of the worst caliber.

Rothenbusch wants to operate a residential care home for six ambulatory (they can walk) aged persons. This is not the same as a nursing home, where residents need nursing care. The operation would be duly licensed by appropriate authorities.

But the house is in an area where the residents have made no bones about the fact they don't want anything "like that" disturbing the neighborhood.

This reaction is typical, according to Jeanne Caughlan, supervisor of residential care licensing with the county department of public health and welfare.

So typical, in fact, that the county's welfare department is forced to place this county's aged persons in other counties.

There are presently 94 care homes for the aged throughout San Mateo county, with a total of 523 beds, and vacancy is low.

Mrs. Caughlan said there is a need for at least double the amount of beds. "And that's being conservative."

The ironic thing about the Pacifica situation is that Rothenbusch is already entitled to house four persons under present city codes. He's simply asking permission to house two additional elderly so he can financially justify the upkeep for his guests.

One of the main reasons for denial by the planning commissioners of his request was that making room for two more persons "would complicate the parking." Rothenbusch is appealing the Planning Commission decision before the Council Monday night.

Parking is not a valid reason for denial, as far as Barbara Foote, licensing worker for the South County, is concerned.

"They (the elderly) don't drive," she emphasized. "Many don't even have families that visit them. Many are placed in a boarding home because they don't have a family."

The staff report recommending denial, however, is based on the letter of the law, which says if you add bodies you need more parking. But there was an addendum to the staff note.

It said, "If the planning commission chooses to approve the use permit, staff would recommend the applicant be directed to work out problems of his site plan and return to the planning commission."

The planning commission denial came after six (of seven) commissioners took a second vote. The first ended in a 3-3 split. One member, Brad Pringle, changed his vote, for a 4-2 defeat of Rothenbusch's request.

Public pressure was strong against approval, and based on other than parking. It was challenged by practically every resident in the neighborhood.

Reference was made to a deed of covenants in the area to the effect the proposed use would violate the "planned community" concept.

It was pointed out that a profit-making business should not be located in the residential neighborhood. The people contended that section of town is designed for families or younger people.

"The aged is obviously a minority group," said Mrs. Caughlan. "We get calls from persons objecting to old people sitting on a porch.

"Some people seem to think the old men are going to rape their daughter," added Esther Quist, licensing worker in the North County.

"It is true though that the aged die eventually," said Mrs. Foote critically.

Mrs. Caughlan said, "You can't find a home with more supervision than those licensed by our department. They are open for inspection at any time. If the owners fail to cut the lawn, the sanitarian will be down their neck."

All elderly placed in boarding homes are required to undergo a physical checkup, complete with a signed statement from a physician that they don't need any special medical care. The average age is 82.

"Our big problem in placing the elderly is this community opposition," said Mrs. Caughlan. "Homeowners' associations seem to be the most active against it. We have to get our message across that the elderly are not going to destroy their neighborhood."

Right now the heaviest proportion of San Mateo County's elderly boarders are in the East Palo Alto and Redwood City area. The homes in East Palo

City Attorney Guides Action

Ignore Expense Motion, Noonan Tells Councilmen in South S.F.

Short of actually taking the gavel from the mayor's hand, South San Francisco City Attorney John Noonan guided and directed one portion of Monday's council meeting.

It had to do with councilmen's expenses, and Noonan was emphatic about making sure councilmen retain an automatic $40 car allowance.

He told three councilmen (one left ill) to ignore a motion of a fourth councilmen that would have required a complete expense itemization. It died for lack of a second.

He also informed a resident who came to the speaker's podium that he was out of order, and said the citizens' group pursuing the council expense issue was politically motivated.

Bob Albright, president of Citizens for Responsible Government (CRG), a city-wide organization, said he took exception to Noonan's reference to the fact the issue was politically motivated.

"This is not political," said Albright. "We (CRG) will continue to go after anything we consider wasteful and ineffective. I resent the insinuation."

CRG some time back wrote a letter to District Attorney Keith Sorenson asking him to rule on the legality of councilmen receiving a flat $50 a month expense, and $75 a month for the mayor.

Sorenson said he had no jurisdiction, since there was no criminal act. He did imply that there was a prerogative for a taxpayers suit to make that determination, however.

State law governs councilmen's expense accounts. Government Code 36514.5 allows reimbursement only for expenses actually incurred.

Noonan, however, took the position that there is no specific requirement as how to file an itemized claim. He therefore suggested councilmen claim $40 a month for car allowance, plus itemize other things such as mileage, meals and miscellaneous expenses.

The city attorney also noted the city's size, assessed and actual valuations and population and expressed wonderment that there is concern about what he apparently considers a few dollars a month.

Resident David Friedenberg, also Brisbane's part-time city

Two Killed, 4 Hurt In Daly City Accident

Two persons were fatally injured and three persons hurt in a three-car accident on rain-slick Interstate 280 in Daly City Friday.

The dead:

Mrs. Gladys Wheless, 82, 3490 El Camino Real, Santa Clara;

Janet Victoria Hewartson, 25, 750 Geary Street, San Francisco.

Both died at Mary's Help Hospital in Daly City, Mrs. Wheless a short time after the accident, Miss Hewartson the next day.

Mrs. Wheless was one passenger in a car driven by her husband, Justice Calvin Wheless, 65, also injured in the accident.

Wheless and two other passengers in his car, Marian Reuben Sturgess, 69, and Nora Sturgess, 62, of Santa Clara, were treated for their injuries at Mary's Help Hospital and released.

Miss Hewartson was northbound on the Junipero Serra Freeway (No. 280) when she lost control, skidded through the divider shrubbery and collided with the Wheless car.

The force of the impact spun Wheless' car into a third vehicle driven by Michael Earl Barrango, 21, of San Francisco. Barrango was not injured, a California Highway Patrol officer said.

Harry E. Ward, 72, of 725 Easton Avenue, San Bruno, died from injuries received in a traffic accident which occurred last December 10 on Easton Avenue.

Kaiser Hospital authorities in South San Francisco announced today Ward died at 8:50 a.m. Friday

U.S. Funds For Garage In Daly City

It will take some shuffling of federal monies but Daly City will be able to come up with the necessary matching funds needed to build a parking garage at the Bay Area Rapid Transit (BART) station on Knowles Avenue.

Special TOPICS funds amounting to some $280,000 will be applied to the federal grant rather than gas tax revenues which cannot be used for such purposes.

Use of the TOPICS money under a special allocation is a first for any city in California, according to city manager David Rowe.

Rowe and other city officials are scheduled to appear before the ten member TOPICS Advisory Committee in San Diego on March 1 to outline their plans for expenditure of the funds.

Application must be made before June 30, 1972 or the city must reapply ander the federally funded program.

Daly City had first anticipated using gas tax monies for its share of the parking facility for some 850 cars adjacent to the BART facility. However, it was pointed out that these funds cannot be used for off-street parking.

Twelve representatives from the city, BART, Federal Highway Administration and the state Division of Highways (District 04) hammered out the details in applying for the available TOPICS funds during a February 1 meeting at city hall.

Mayor Bernard Lycett praised all agencies concerned noting "They have been trying to get us these funds right along, but (the funds) still manage to elude us somehow."

What Lycett was referring to was the years-long battle both BART and Daly City have experienced in trying to get funding for the $3.2 million garage.

Some two-years ago finds were available for such a facili-

S.S.F. Council Backs Away On Parking

South San Francisco officials have backed off an imposed parallel parking plan for downtown Grand Avenue made two weeks ago.

Councilmen Monday night held up on further pursuit of an 180 day parallel parking experiment after receiving a petition with some 60 merchants' signatures on it.

The petition said Grand Avenue businessmen protest the substituting of parallel parking for angle parking.

A letter from merchant Nello Sciandri noted also that the businessmen along with the Chamber of Commerce would have proposals ready for submission regarding improvements in parking and "other related subjects."

City Manager Gale Dreisbach said he had not received a copy of such a plan, but believed it involved a median, new traffic lights, and removing about six feet of sidewalk on both sides of the street in order to maintain angle parking.

Dreisbach recommended the council postpone the earlier parallel parking plan until it is determined whether the merchant's proposal is financially feasible.

The civic organization Citizens for Responsible Government had sought the investigation because they allege that the exchange was not in the best interest in the city.

CRG claims that in the exchange the city gave away more land than it received and that the land it gave away had a substantially greater financial value.

Frank Pacelli

After Long Service Pacelli Steps Down

By FRANK LaPIERRE

Since 1958 when he won his first election, Daly City councilman Frank Pacelli has been active in local, regional and state politics.

His associates claim Pacelli thrives on politics, that he sleeps, breathes and actually subsists on politics.

Currently the 50-year-old businessman serves as a director on the Board of the League of California Cities representing 39 cities in San Francisco, San Mateo and Santa Clara counties. He has been elected twice to the post by the three counties.

He is on the Regional Planning Committee of the Association of Bay Area Governments; Board of Control of the San Francisco Airport Access Project; the Board of Control of the San Mateo Transit Commission, a director of the North San Mateo County Sanitation District, and; a member of the Board of Directors of Mary's Help Hospital.

In recent months Pacelli has begged off many similar posts around the Bay Area and at State levels. He was undoubtedly preparing for that day in April 1972 — two months hence — when he takes leave of the city council.

Some people say Pacelli is stepping down from the council "because he sees the handwriting on the wall."

Others scoff at this, proclaiming he is simply "tired." Then there are the cynics who profess to "know for sure" a rift has developed on the city council.

To all these the cool Pacelli replies "Nuts."

"The simple truth is I have served my time and, I hope, the people of Daly City who re-elected me three times to the council.

"Of course I am tired, and I have a family and a business," he explains. "Sooner or later I had to decide to back off on some of my political commitments. I intend to devote more time to my family and business, especially my family."

Pacelli owns two stationary stores, one in the Westlake Shopping Center and the other at Serramonte. Both businesses demand more of his time, Pacelli said.

Increased time needed to participate in city affairs have been an increasing drain on the councilman. His biggest vacation in recent years was an eight day tour of Italy last year.

"What can you see in eight days?" he asked.

Starting on the Library Commission in 1956, Pacelli entered the council for campaign re-election with the late Joseph Verducci in 1958. Four years later he ran with now city attorney Albert Polonsky and subsequently with incumbent city councilman Anthony Giamonna.

Asked where he would like his testimonial held to honor him after all his years of civil service, Pacelli said he didn't want "any big fanfare."

Matter-of-fact Pacelli said he was dead set against any and all testimonials and if one were planned for him "I won't show up."

"The people of Daly City have given me a testimonial — many of them — by electing and re-electing me to the city council over the years. There is no better testimonial of their feelings than that," Pacelli explained.

What will he do with his time after he steps down?

"Get to know my family better and maybe go on a vacation," he said.

Spur Land Discussed In Millbrae

The possibility that a piece of land adjacent to the Spur property, owned by the Millbrae School District, can be utilized to benefit both the district and the city, was mentioned at Monday night's Board of Education meeting, held at Lomita Park School.

The discussion involved other properties owned by the district, adjacent to Millbrae and Meadows School. Necessary easements and title searches were also mentioned for the land parcels, prior to final consideration of their sale.

Board members decided to withhold payment of an approximate $7,000 bill for resurfacing the playground at Lomita Park School, as puddles of water are still being retained there, and the surface is unsatisfactory.

Policies and procedures were accepted for the serving of free and reduced price lunches to needy children, the criteria being low income families and those faced with sudden emergencies. A number of children benefit from this service every month.

Building modifications that were approved, subject to consideration as to suitability, totalled $20,147. This included landscaping and paving at Chadbourne; plantings, tables, drapes and night lighting at Glen Oaks; planting, night lighting, carpeting and sound system installation at Green Hills; planting, tables, installation of acoustical tile and possibly a glass door at Highlands; landscaping, a small sidewalk, handball courts and fencing at Lomita Park; landscaping, drapes and night lights at Meadows; landscaping and louvre replacements at Millbrae; office equipment and drapes as well as some landscaping at Spring Valley: landscaping, painting, draperies, venetian blinds and work on the baseball field at Taylor

Papan to Seek Assembly Seat

Louis Papan

Louis J. Papan, 43-year-old Daly City city councilman, today announced his candidacy for Assemblyman on the democratic ticket in the June primary for San Mateo County's 27th district.

Last week Assemblyman Leo J. Ryan announced he was giving up the post he has held for the past ten years in order to run for the newly created 11th U.S. Congressional district seat.

Papan, a North County insurance and real estate broker, sharply attacked what he called "recent legislative failures" in several fields—particularly taxes, schools and conservation — laying the blame squarely on the Reagan Administration.

The former FBI agent made his announcement at the Hilton Inn at International Airport. He is the second person to announce for the seat. Two weeks ago South San Francisco schoolteacher Ray Ferguson tossed his hat into the race.

In his news conference, Papan faulted the Legislature's record on six major issues including tax loopholes, property taxes, jobs, schools, noise pollution and conservation.

A 12-year resident of Daly City and active on various regional Bay Area regional agencies, the candidate is married and the father of three school-age children.

For three years prior to entering his present business, Papan was an FBI agent in the San Francisco office.

On homeowners' property taxes Papan said, "Major tax relief has been promised homeowners every year for the past four years. Instead of relief taxes have skyrocketed."

He singled out the plight of elderly homeowners as a "tragic example" of the present situation.

"As a first step I would propose that the present $750 tax exemption on homes be raised to at least $3000," he said.

Papan's stand on curbing noise pollution generating from the international airport was tougher.

Pacifica YSB Chief Resigns

Ralph Rutley, the executive director of the Pacifica Youth Service Bureau, resigned Tuesday, according to County Supervisor Jean Fassler, a YSB director.

Mrs. Fassler said she had not seen Rutley's letter of resignation, but understood it was at her home in Pacifica.

She said she did not know the reasons set forth by Rutley for submitting his resignation, which must be acted upon by the County Criminal Justice Council.

The resignation is effective March 1.

Rutley declined immediate comment except to confirm his resignation.

Homeowners Fight Care Facilities

Alto are becoming overcrowded.

Mrs. Caughlan explains blacks in that community are beginning to feel that white people are dumping their aged, instead of caring for them.

She said the need in San Mateo County mainly is for persons who would be willing to take elderly who are on public assistance, which allows a maximum of $226 a month for care. This rate makes it financially difficult to house a person, incidentally.

Those paying out of their own pocket sometimes pay as high as $600 to live in a boarding home, with an average of $400.

The county's hands are tied in any local fuss, because the license they give requires prior approval from all other agencies. Other counties apparently don't have the zoning problems.

"We would like to talk with homeowners beforehand," said Mrs. Caughlan.

"More often than not there's panic by the time we get involved, and then we're the opposition.

"The department has found that once a boarding home is established in a residential area, the people get used to it and there is no problem renewing the use permit," she said.

attorney, said, "I'm amazed at what I've heard. You (Noonan) talk of upholding laws and statutes. This one (on expenses) doesn't say anything about a $40 car allowance.

"The question is, are the amounts being paid legally or not. I submit that expenses actually incurred means just that — no pre-determined flat amount."

Councilman Patrick Ahern, who changed his mind on a seconded motion to itemize all expenses, made by Councilman Warren Steinkamp, when he found cut the $40 wasn't included in the motion, took Friedenberg to task about free advice.

Ahern belittled Friedenberg's work with the city of Brisbane and said, "We don't need any free advice."

Friedenberg responded that he was a South San Francisco resident and had many clients in that city.

"Regardless," he said, "The fact that you are illegally taking money from the people and putting it in your pocket is germain here."

Friedenberg suggested that the practice not only stop immediately, but that councilmen return monies they received in the past.

Councilman Steinkamp then made his motion that "the present policy of automatic expense payments be terminated and that henceforth councilmen be reimbursed only for actual and necessary expenses incurred on city business upon submission of an itemized statement."

Ahern seconded the motion, and withdrew his second after hearing Noonan's plea.

"I urge you, in spite of the argument in the audience," said Noonan, "to establish the automobile availability charge of $40 a month."

Noonan said he didn't like the implications of Steinkamp's motion. He said it was in effect saying that the past history of the flat $50 and $75 payments was illegal. Noonan claims it was not.

San Bruno Apartments Take a Turn

It took the form of just a couple of informal inquiries at Monday's planning commission hearing — but on their basis, it appeared that San Bruno might gain a 96-unit apartment project, and lose a 40-unit project, previously approved.

The new complex would be called the Bay Hill Grove Apartments, and would be built on the present site of a dense grove of eucalyptus trees. It would be built on a four-acre sliver of land running between Interstate 380 and The Place apartment project, with 341 feet fronting along Cherry Avenue Extension.

The plan was presented by Ernest Giesch, who spoke on behalf of Menlo Park builder Keith Garner, operating under the name of Encinal Park Builders. Giesch explained that the site is left over from the former holdings of Consolidated Lands, after the Division of Highways took its land for the freeway. When Consolidated dissolved, the land went to partner Thomas Culligan, who has optioned it to Garner.

"It will be a high class luxury type of development," Giesch explained. The project will exceed minimum specifications in every way — instead of the 1250 square feet of lot space per unit allowed under RM zoning (garden apartment), some 1800 square feet will be used; thus, instead of the 145 units allowed, only 96 units will be built. There will be 80 two-bedroom units and 16 one-bedrooms — all of them quite spacious.

The project will be three stories high, with elevators, and with no garages. Cars will be housed in carports.

Garner will need a variance, Giesch said — one to permit him to provide just one and a half parking spaces for each unit, instead of the two required. And a third of these spaces will be uncovered.

Giesch was assured that he would not even have to ask for a variance on the parking spaces. Under RM zoning, a parking variance can be given under unusual amenities, such as excellent design, or special recreation features.

6 Reappointed: Permit Granted

South San Francisco councilmen reappointed six people to various city boards and commissions, after an hour-long personnel session that ended at 1:10 a.m. Tuesday.

Victor Feudale was reappointed to a four-year term on the housing authority.

New four-year terms were granted to personnel board members Fildo Fregosi, Walter McNamara and Frank O'Brien.

Two reappointments were made to the recreation commission. George Coulter and Joseph Manjarrez had their three-year terms renewed.

Councilmen after the session also adopted a resolution approving Mike Callan's use permit request that had been voted on earlier in the meeting, and in a separate motion they requested he defer construction for 90 days "to explore a more compatable plan."

S.S.F. Businesses OK'd

The determination on whether South San Francisco's Westborough section will get another service station and speedy food market wah finally made on Monday.

There will be two new such facilities, unless resident Don Gamma follows through on a threat that "the people won't allow it."

City Attorney John Noonan read a list of dates and actions of the planning commission and reled councilmen had no choice but to reverse the commission's denial of the request of developer Mike Callan.

Two councilmen, Frank Mammini and Warren Steinkamp, didn't agree with Noonan's ruling.

"The people have certainly expressed their will (against the developments), and I think the planning commission acted in full accord (unanimously denying the commercial development request)," said Steinkamp. "I think we should think about it before reversing this position."

Mammini said it was the intent of the planning commission to "control this piece of property with orderly growth. There are too many service stations in the area," he said. "Prematurity was always a part of the planned community ordinance."

Callan's architect Ichiro Sasaki contended that Callan's proposed use was consistent with the city's adopted general plan. He said the plans were executed to provide "stable quality and desirable character," and that the development will be compatible with both pres- and future uses.

He said the planning commission had no choice but to approve the plan "unless there were extremely overriding circumstances," and to say the development was premature (the reason for denial) was "arbitrary, discriminatory and thereby unconstitutional."

Gamma, member of the board of directors of the West Park Homeowners Association, noted that there already are a dozen service stations in the area.

About half of those are in Daly City and Pacifica, just across the street from South San Francisco.

Daly City Woman Dies

Mrs. Nancy Pat Densmore of Daly City, the widow of an Episcopalian priest, was killed Saturday night in a wrong-way accident on Junipero Serra Freeway in Daly City. She leaves three children.

Highway patrolmen said Mrs. Densmore, 41, of 134 Canterbury Avenue, drove her car onto the freeway by way of the southbound off-ramp to Hickey Boulevard and was driving northbound in a southbound lane when her auto crashed head-on into another car. She was dead on arrival at Mary's Help Hospital.

Funeral services were scheduled to be held on Tuesday at Duggan's Serra Mortuary in Daly City with burial to be at Skylawn Memorial Cemetary.

Mrs. Densmore's late husband, the Rev. Warren Densmore of Pacifica, died in 1965. Her children, Mary Claire, 15, Warren, 13, and Douglas, 8, are in the care of her parents, Victor and Jean Middleton of 221 Canterbury Avenue, Daly City.

Patrolmen said the accident happened at 11:21 p.m. after Mrs. Densmore's car had gone for some distance on the wrong side of Hickey Boulevard and then on the freeway where it collided with a southbound auto driven by Robert Watson, 46, of Milpitas.

Watson and his son, John, 15, sustained major injuries and were taken to Mary's Help Hospital, from where they were transferred to Letterman General Hospital in San Francisco.

At each step of the way new stipulations were added and old rules abandoned. Each time BART and the city applied, some sort of block prevented their actualy getting the needed money.

BART was told last year that matching funds could not be made retroactive, that they had to be current.

The rapid transit district had already committed its funds to build the Daly City station and therefore could not use this

'Saturation Force' Planned

Curtailment of Pacifica Dog Problems?

By BOB PETERSON

Pacifica's dog problem may soon be curtailed.

SPCA Operations Supervisor Ron Babcock says two additional men expected to join his department will be used as a "saturation force."

As such, they will be sent to those areas in the county where there appears to be a preponderance of stray dogs. According to Pacifica officials that would be their city.

Babcock said the two additional men, and trucks, are expected to be operational in about forty-five days. He said another request for more additional men is being made at this year's budget session.

Pacifica officials have been putting the pressure on the SPCA about stray dogs in the city because they have been flooded with complaints by residents.

One animal control officer, John Brooks, is the sole enforcer for what the SPCA has broken down as the "Coast Region," which includes the entire coast.

In a meeting with the Pacifica council this week, Brooks said, "I try to be aware of all the complaints, and act as soon as possible."

He explained that he often will get a complaint on a stray dog that does not include an address, or a description of the animal. "All I can do is patrol the area. I usually do this about three different times and if I don't see anything I write it off."

Babcock said he wished it was the case, "as most people apparently think, that all we do is pick up stray dogs." He said they do this but also answer complaints of barking dogs, check alleged cruelty to animals, investigate where animals supposedly destroyed property and remove dead animals from the streets, among other things.

According to Babcock there are 3,600 dogs licensed in Pacifica.

it) put up its own money to have

Councilman Nick Gust asked about the SPCA agreement with South San Francisco.

Babcock explained that city (the only one in the county to do a man operate exclusively in South San Francisco. The agreement included the purchase of a truck, also.

Although at the city's beck and call, to work day or night, or any split shift, the animal control officer is administratively under the direction of the SPCA.

"They seem to be satisifed with the program," said Babcock.

Councilman Dan Modena asked about the possibility of having city employes trained so they could be used two or three days a week as animal control officers.

Babcock said that when animals are picked up and taken to the shelter, owners rarely come and pick them up.

An 'Information' Meeting on PPBS Becomes a Forum of Denunciation

By BOB PETERSON

A meeting scheduled as an information session on PPBS (Planning, Programming, Budgeting System) recently instead became a denunciation of that method of introducing management into the schools.

California Federation of Teachers' President Raoul Teilhet, while praising the intention of having financial accountability, claimed PPBS has a hidden message of "preventing the increase of public monies into public education."

Teilhet was one of three speakers at a 4 p.m. meeting attended by approximately 60 teachers at Serramonte High School Little Theater.

The two other spokesmen were proponents of PPBS. One was James E. Waters, executive secretary to the Advisory Commission on School District Budgeting and Accounting, with the Department of Education.

Third speaker was Keith Echeverri, consultant to a joint legislative committee on educationa goals and evaluation.

Teilhet, noting the limited audience, said the empty chairs were symbolic of "teachers' cynicism and awareness that they are not being involved in decision making."

The AFT president charged that PPBS "goes way back as a secret government movement" and said that he doubted it could be stopped.

"We will have a new system of accounting and it will be part of the education code," said Teilhet.

He said the AFT favors the idea of financial accountability. "It would be the first time a lay person can find out where his money is being spent in the school system," said Teilhet.

"But a second part of the PPBS structure, what Teilhet called the "decision making and teaching level," was attacked strongly by the AFT president. He put the majority of blame on Governor Ronald Reagan.

"The governor decided public education is inefficient; that it had fat in it. So he decided to deny more money and got together this cost efficiency goal system to get rid of the waste.

"It's no great revelation to the teacher that our schools are mismanaged," said Teilhet. "But the teacher has become the scapegoat.

"The great lie and hyprocracy is to hold us (teachers) accountable for the failure of the entire system, without giving us the where-with-all (money) we know is needed to make the system work."

Teilhet said teachers always have had goals and objectives, but have never had the money necessary to implement them, nor have they had the voice necessary to get them implemented.

"You can't produce success or even failure, on the kind of money being provided," said Teilhet. "The public has been lied to that they can get a $1's worth of education for 50 cents, when they should be told it's going to cost $1.50. It's a lie and teachers need to stand up and say it's a lie," said Teilhet."

He referred to the recent State Supreme Court Decision that said the present form of school financing was illegal and discriminatory and said that "public schools are eventually going to get necessary money through progressive taxation."

Teilhet also predicted that if a Democrat is elected governor next term teachers would have their desired collective bargaining. "This is the last state in the nation that will meet and confer," said Teilhet. "We'll get rid of the Winton Act (which calls for meet and confer sessions) and have a collective bargaining bill," he said.

Echeverri called Teilhet's remarks "contradictory" and said "teachers should start thinking again as members of a community to bring about the necessary changes in education."

He said Teilhet came across as someone who "totally distrusts people who are making decisions," to which came a reply from the audience, "so do we."

Echeverri said Sacramento is working toward a decentralizing of authority and the legislature wants people on the local level to have a feeling of sharing in what decisions are made regarding their schools.

"There is a role for them to play so that decision making is not in the hands of a few," said Echeverri. "We need to know from the people what they want."

Asked just how the shared decision making would come about, Echeverri admitted "there are no guarantees. We're trying to get the process started by involving the public and the teachers. Then legislation will be relevant."

Nuns to Quit St. Dunstan's

Another Catholic grammar school here on the Peninsula may be closing down soon.

With the announcement that the teaching nuns of the Sisters of Notre Dame are leaving St. Dunstan's School, Millbrae, there is speculation that it too may have to cease functioning.

Parents of students at the school were informed last week that the nuns would not staff the school after June of this year.

Pastor of St. Dunstan's, Rev. Norbert Feely, said any decision on the matter of closing the school would have to be made by the Archdiocesan Board of Education, the Superintendent of Schools for the Archdiocese and the parish.

Appointments Announced

A number of new appointments and two re-appointments have been made on Pacifica's various committee's and commissions.

Two new faces on the city's planning commission will be Dick Meier, who is a card club proponent, and Humberto Bermudez, an architect.

Both are named to four-year terms, replacing Chuck Gillingham, who resigned the commission and Jim McDonald, whose term had expired.

Other appointments included Richard Trujillo to the personnel commission, Ken Grobman and Don McMillian to the park, beach and recreation commission and Tom McGlynn to the health and safety committee.

The re-appointment was of Joseph Greene and John McCoy to the city's highway and transportation committee.

DC Democrats Meet Candidates

The Daly City-Colma Democratic Club's January meeting was also a "Meet the Candidates" night

William Schumacher, seeking election as a Daly City Councilman, and Anthony Governale, a San Bruno Councilman, in the race for Leo Ryan's seat in the State Assembly, talked about their platforms.

Democratic Club meetings are the third Wednesday of each month, at 8 p.m., at the M. Pauline Brown School, 305 Eastmoor, Daly City. Contact Mrs. Reva Krips, 336 St. Francis Blvd., Daly City, for further information.

Playwright Clifford Odets was the 'darling of the Left' back in the Thirties when his plays spoke out for the middle classes and individual rights. A recent revival of interest in his outcry for human dignity and his incisive feeling for loneliness is far less revolutionary than it was in those Depression years.

What was called liberalism parallels today's conservative thinking and while I recognize Odets' naivete and bombastic theatrics, he still speaks to us about war, graft and making a living wage. If these are polemics, thev at least hold essential truths.

It was necessary for Allen Fletcher to stage the current American Conservatory Theater production of "Paradise Lost" in its original setting (1932 Bronx, New York) because it isn't a play that can successfully be updated. But it needs cutting. Three hours is too long for modern audiences.

The play was never one of Odets' strongest and it didn't enjoy a healthy Broadway run back in 1935. But to throw the playwright out as being melodramatic or simplistic is to deny our own history because his fears did come to pass and no American playwright has since captured the class struggle so eloquently.

"Paradise Lost" has its flaws, as does the ACT company's attempt at diversified accents. There is a potpourri of ethnic accents from Yiddish to Irish to German and its inevitable combination, New Yorkese. But the acting is first rate, the concept engrossing, the direction taut and the work meaningful.

It shows with shattering impact how little we've progressed in the class struggle over 33 years. At its worst, it is a lesson in economics, social and human behavior, psychology, American history, ethics and good theater.

There are 24 characters and each has important points to make. No one is atmospheric background, but fits into the dramatic picture with the precision of a puzzle and can't be edited out arbitrarily.

G. Wood plays the honest manufacturer who believes idealistically that 'tomorrow will be better.' He's a gentle spiritual man who regards his fellow man with compassion and charity.

Living upstairs in their Bronx home is his business partner played by Ray Reinhardt with caustic, explosive, cold-hearted temperament. Their respective wives, Winifred Mann and Joy Carlin are separate studies in patience.

Their conflict is the main issue. Adding to the household's gloom is a trusted friend (Joseph Bird) who keeps "Marlene Dietrich in the harem of his head" and a furnaceman (Jay Doyle) who rants against the immorality of wars.

Paul Shenar is the son dying slowly of some strange disease and Richard Council plays his brother, an Olympic runner who never learned to work for a living. He becomes involved with a petty gangster.

The play is considerably heightened by the volcanically passionate intensity of Martin Berman, a cab driver who sees disillusionment and poverty all around him and takes illegally what he wants.

There is a persuasiveness despite the play's wordy diatribe. It comes from the vividness of the characters which the ACT cast projects with color and energy.

Catherine Ragni, Michael Stanton Exchange Vows

St. Dunstan's Church in Millbrae was the recent setting for the marriage of Catherine Lee Ragni and Thomas Michael Stanton.

The 12:30 service was conducted by the bridegroom's uncle, the Rev. George Daum. Immediately following the rites, the newlyweds greeted guests at the Italian American Social Club in San Francisco.

Catherine is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Ragni of Millbrae. When she walked to the altar with her father she was dressed in a floor length gown styled with Quaker lace and trimmed with pearls. She carried her mother's wedding prayer book with stephanotis.

Sherry Hawkins was the maid of honor and secondary attendants included Carol Nobs, Molly Holweger, Charlotte Stanton, sister of the benedict, and Robin Furry. Their identical costumes were fashioned with wine colored crepe bodices and royal blue floor length skirts. They carried pink carnations.

Nell Norton

Good morning, good cooks.

What better way to start off a good morning than by talking about good food? I recently made some cookies from a recipe created by Pillsbury and they were well received by family and friends. The recipe is appropriately named for these cookies disappear quickly.

Super simple to make, you do the mixing in a sauce an, pour into a baking pan and bake.

DISAPPEARING MARSHMALLOW BROWNIES

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Grease bottom and sides of 9-inch square baking pan.

½ cup (half 6-oz. pkg.) butterscotch pieces
¼ cup butter or margarine

Place the half cup butterscotch pieces and fourth cup butter in 3-quart saucepan. Melt over medium heat, stirring constantly. Remove from heat; cool to lukewarm.

¾ cup all-purpose flour
1-third cup firmly packed brown sugar
1 teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon vanilla
1 egg

Add the three-fourths cup flour, one-third cup brown sugar, one teaspoon baking powder, fourth teaspoon salt, half teaspoon vanilla and one egg to butterscotch mixture in saucepan; mix well.

1 cup miniature marshmallows
1 cup (6-oz. pkg.) semi-sweet chocolate pieces
¼ cup nuts

Fold the cup each marshmallows and chocolate pieces and one-fourth cup nuts into butterscotch batter just until combined, about 5 strokes.

Spread in prepared pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 20 to 25 minutes. DO NOT OVERBAKE. Center will be jiggly but becomes firm upon cooling. When cool cut into bars. Makes 12 to 18 bars.

This next is one of those wonderful recipes that passes from good cook to good cook. A delicious combination of chicken and broccoli with a rich sauce, it is perfect for a luncheon or dinner.

CHICKEN RICE DIVAN

2 10-ounce frozen broccoli spears
cup shredded Parmesan cheese
6 large slices cooked chicken
Salt and pepper
1 cup cooked rice
2 Tablespoons butter or margarine
2 Tablespoons all-purpose flour
1 cup milk
1 Tablespoon lemon juice
1 cup sour cream

Cook the two packages frozen broccoli as directed on package; drain. Arrange in 11x7x2-inch baking pan. Sprinkle with one-fourth cup Parmesan cheese, reserve remaining cheese. Top with the six large slices cooked chicken. Season with salt and pepper. Spoon on the one cup cooked rice.

Prepare a medium white sauce: Melt the two tablespoons butter in saucepan over low heat Blend in the two tablespoons flour; add the cup milk all at once. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, till mixture thickens and bubbles. Remove from heat and stir in the one tablespoon lemon juice. Gently fold in the one cup sour cream and pour over chicken in casserole. Sprinkle with remaining one-fourth cup Parmesan cheese. Bake 15 to 20 minutes at 400 degrees. Serves 6.

Since vegetables appear at every dinner, it's a joy to find a new way of serving them. This saute is very tasty.

SHREDDED CABBAGE SAUTE

½ small head cabbage, shredded
2 stalks celery, chopped
4 green onions (tops too) chopped
1 Tablespoon butter
Salt and pepper

Melt the tablespoon butter in large skillet. Add the cabbage, celery and green opions. Cook until just tender. Salt and pepper to taste. 4 servings.

Stop!

Don't throw anything away until you consider donating it to the annual Holy Angels Catholic Church's rummage sale which will be held the first part of next month!

Mrs. Nemer Gonzales is the chairman of the sale and assisting her is co-chairman Mrs. Warren Wilkinson. Both ladies have issued calls for usable clothing, books, bric-a-brac, appliances, jewelry, records and dishes and vases, which will be sold at th sale on March 4.

Since sorting and marking are time consuming jobs the chairmen and their committeewomen are hoping that people will begin contributing items now so there will be adequate time for the committee to prepare for the sale.

Mrs. George Sigigie, chairman of publicity for the Holy Angels Women's guild, reports that anyone wishing to donate to the sale may leave contributions at Mrs. Gonzales' home on Tuesdays between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. on Saturdays between 10 am. and noon.

Persons wishing information or wishing to arrange for pick-up of items are asked to call Mrs. Gonzales (992-3591) or Mrs. Wilkinson (756-5007), Mrs. Sigigie said.

THE SAN FRANCISCO SCENE, the exciting theme of the Westlake Catholic Women's Fashion Show and Luncheon, will be presented, amid the gracious appointments of the Fairmont Hotel, on Saturday, we are reminded by Mrs. Donald Gianfermo, publicity chairman for the unit.

The show has been sold out for more than a week now and the 1100 ticket holders are guaranteed a memorable afternoon, according to Mrs. Francis Kelly, the chairman of the extravaganza.

A large number of the parish's active women have agreed to be hostessses for the luncheon, and Mrs. Gianfermo reports that Mrs. William Arata, Mrs. Edward Avanzino, Mrs. Peter Balestrieri, Mrs. Donald Bechtel, Mrs. Dario Baciocco, Mrs. John Breslin, Mrs. Michael Cooney, Mrs. James Dougherty, Mrs. Charles Baerio, and Mrs. Albert Fambrini will be among those greeting guests at various tables scattered about the hotel's Grand Ballroom.

Also included on the list of hostesses are Mrs. William Feley, Mrs. Raymond Forcina, Mrs. Theodore Frankos, Mrs. Richard Galliani, Mrs. J. Norman Gehre, Mrs. Joseph Hayden, Mrs. Richard Jackavich, Mrs. John Kachur, Mrs. John Kavanagh, Mrs. Frank Kelecheva and Mrs. Michael Loyd.

Mrs. Harry Lindner, Mrs. John Macia, Mrs. James McCann, Mrs. Edward Hulback, Mrs. T. D. Mulready, Mrs. James Murray, Mrs. Eugene Murray and Mrs. Peter Migale, are listed among the hostesses.

The list of hostesses names continues with Mrs. Dominic Oliveri, Mrs. Sal Parise, Mrs. Sebastian Passinisi, Mrs. Gerald Pult, Mrs. William Rueter, Mrs. Victor Sariotti, Mrs. Leonard Scott, Mrs. William Shanahan, Mrs. Clyde Silverthorn, Mrs. A. J. Phillips, Mrs. Andrew Skirra, Mrs. Henry Soldati, Mrs. Dominic Tarantino, Mrs. Dino Tonelli and Mrs. John Wilden.

Tuesday evening the members of the Riordan High School Guild will observe An Evening of Recollection for wives and husbands as well as guests. According to Mrs. John Ferguson, publicity chairman, the evening program will begin at 7:30 p.m. in Chaminade Hall on the school campus, 175 Phelan avenue in San Francisco.

Members of the guild were priveleged to hear Brother William Bolts, chairman of the Social Studies department of the high school, who spoke on the history behind the San Francisco streets and their unique names.

Mrs. Raymond Rinaldi extended her thanks to all the mothers and friends of the Riordan who helped with the inventory evening at the Emporium and to the ladies that helped serve and chaperone at the Crusader Ball. Refreshments were served by the Freshmen class mothers following the close of the business meeting, Mrs. Ferguson reports.

MARALL SMITH, vice president of the Fifty-Plus Club of Pacifica, has issued an appeal for the men of the club to assist him in his efforts to make the Valentine-Leap Year Party, slated for Tuesday, February 22, a huge success.

The meeting-party will begin at 7:45 p.m. in the Pacifica Library, Hilton at Palmetto Avenue, with lots of fun and dancing on tap.

Plans call for the men to wear their most colorful shirts and the ladies to arrive in bright and colorful mumus. The whole evening will be devoted to fun and nonsense and members and visitors are urged to attend this festive occasion, Mrs. Edna Laurel Calhan, president, indicated.

Incidentally, Mrs. Calhan, long a leader in Pacifica, has been "laid low" by sight difficulties and had to skip the New Years jaunt to Yosemite as she was recovering from surgery on her left eye and preparing for surgery on the right eye.

MRS. RUDY ENBERG of South San Francisco, one of the moving forces behind the San Francisco area chapter of Friends Outside, has asked for more clothes for the Clothes Closet maintained for released prisoners and families of prisoners or newly released men.

At the present time the closet is totally bare of men's clothes in waist size 32 and smaller. Sweaters, jackets and shirts of all sizes are in short supply.

Mrs. Enberg reports that in 1971 the Friends Outside had 47 families, 73 women and 208 men who came for food and clothing. When you consider that each man needs a suit, 3 or 4 shirts, ties and socks as well as miscellaneous items and that the women need dresses, sweaters, skirts, coats, shoes and blouses plus clothing for their children, you can see how desperate the need for clothing can become and, Mrs. Enberg also the need for help in The Clothes Closet can be very desperate.

If you have clothes or time to donate call Friends Outside, 661-6900, the volunteers are always glad to hear from you.

The Jeff Scene

By SUE MCALLISTER

THE JEFFERSON Student Body held its first annual Indian Ball, which raised $230 for the 1972 yearbook (or if the yearbook does not need the funds some will go to the student government).

At the dance, pretty petite Sylvia Elauria became the first Indian Princess of Jefferson High School. Sylvia a senior was nominated by the Senior Rowdy Club, along with 14 girls from other clubs.

A special preliminary election was held and three finalists were elected. The winner was announced at the Ball.

New Student Body President Bill Dettmar made the announcement and gave Sylvia a symbolic feather, a dozen roses and a turquoise ring.

THE SENIOR Rowdy Club celebrated its semester break by journeying to the snow. The group headed by Larry Puccini and supervised by Tom Martinez spent a weekend near Heavenly Valley at the South Shore end of Tahoe.

CANDY IS being sold at a solid pace now at by the Horseman Club and the Junior Class.

BASKETBALLS will be taken out of the closet February 17 for at least one night by the Jeff Faculty as they play the Colma Faculty.

THE JEFFERSON BAND will be displaying their talents with the other schools in the district February 27 in the annual mass band concert.

Terra Nova Topics

By Rockie Montenegro

It is not every high school student that attempts to break a world record. Even fewer succeed.

Dave Hyman, a Terra Nova sophomore, recently broke the world's record for eating prunes in a public display of unconstipated will power.

He consumed five pounds of large dried prunes (250 in all) during a sitting period of five hours, with only five-minute "break" intervals. Over 40 persons witnessed the feat of endurance, and several local newspapers were on hand to cover the story. Hyman's goal is to send the news-clippings and a list of witnesses' signatures to the publishers of Guinness Book of World Records, and see if they would print his new record.

The last records published for prune-eating were 150 (no time was given) and a speed record for eating 130 stewed prunes in 116 seconds. Dave's 250 prunes in a five-hour period was a record for endurance and consumption in one sitting, and he surpassed the other records in number.

According to Hyman, the motivation for trying to set a record was boredom, and a desire to do something different. He received a box of prunes for Christmas, and thinking it was an unusal fruit, he decided to set a new prune-eating record. He got no encouragement after announcing his intention, and most persons were amazed when he actually went through with it.

Aside from receiving comments, such as "Did you set the world's record for sitting on the pot?" and acquiring the nick name of "Prune," the reactions to his record breaking were not earth-shattering. His family took it quite well, although his mother, "didn't want to be associated with me for awhile." His brother, Rob, 14, even counted the prunes for him. He admits that "people who didn't know me before know me now."

Westmoor Whirl

Students Elect Officers

Recently elected to class offices at Westmoor High School were sophomores George Miram and Tony Tarantino, and freshman Cindy Rodgers and Glyniss Heisenbuttle.

George Miram, participating for the first time in governmental leading at Westmoor, was elected president of the sophomore class. Attempting to fill the shoes of past president Jim Liston, Miram forsees a hopefully prosperous second semester.

Running un-opposed, like Miram, for the office of sophomore class vice-president was Tony Tarantino. The sophomore class has come a long way, leaving last year's rut of six-cent treasury. Working together, the two plan on keeping this prosperous streak going.

Leading the class of '75 for a second semester will be freshman class president Cindy Rodgers. Her most recent fund-raising innovation was the selling of magazine subscriptions.

Glyniss Heissenbuttel was Cindy's running mate as she ran for freshman class vice-president. Cindy and Glyniss can best do their job with the help and co-operation of their classmates.

WESTMOOR HIGH SCHOOL'S Film Club has produced a movie, "Sesame Seed."

The movie is not handled by just one or two people, but has the whole club producing. Direction of the movie is worked in the same manner.

The movie is about a typical day at Westmoor, showing students at work and "play."

The purpose of the film was to get the club to work together then later divided into specific groups such as splicing, narration, and other film-making aspect. The film only cost the Film Club about $20 and the price of admission was only 10c during school hours.

There were 15 students at work on "Sesame Seed."

The movie was a "complete success," according to Club Advisor Judy Kolbmann.

The club showed the movie on January 2 to pupils.

THE WESTMOOR HIGH KENNEL Club is holding a first all breed all age fun match.

The match will be held at Westmoor March 11. Judging will begin at 10 a.m.

The entry fee will be $3.50.

Entries close March 1 and there will be no entries accepted the day of the match.

Checks are to be made payable to: Westmoor H.S.K.C. Mail entries to John Milton, Westmoor High School, Daly City, CA 94015. Your dog must be entered in a regular class at the match by 12 noon.

Judging the match are Robert Anderson Jr., Jeanne Bobbitt, Viva Corboff, Russell Herman, Elva Libbey, Luie Moreno and Al Talbot.

Part of the proceeds from the show are going to the Guide Dogs for the Blind and the club is also using some of the proceeds to build a scholarship for graduating seniors who wish to study veternary medicine.

LOOKING FORWARD to the excitment of traveling overseas, are Westmoor High School students, Ann Twohey and Chona Bautista who will participate in this year's I.F.C. execursions.

The I.F.C. (International Friendship Club) is an experiment in international living.

After an interview was conducted for junior students interested in taking part in this opportunity, a few finalists were chosen. The questions were asked by Westmoor teachers, last year's I.F.C. students Cheryl Glenn and Sue Jeppson and also two community members.

Ann and Chona included in their interviews why they wanted to go and some of their personal reasons of wanting to visit the places they are to choose.

$149,738 Safety Grants For Bruno

Assemblyman Leo J. Ryan (D-South San Francisco) nanonced the approval of two traffic safety grants totaling $149,738 for the city of San Bruno. These are the first such awards to be made to the city under Governor Reagan's California traffic safety program.

The combined grants will implement a collective traffic enforcement program and a pedestrian safety program.

State director of traffic safety William F. Scheueumann Jr. stated, "The traffic enforcement grant will enable the city to establish a selective traffic enforcement squad dedicated to the reduction of traffic accidents and violations." The pedestrian safety grant will provide the resources to acquire a full-time traffic safety officer who will develope and implement programs dealing with pedestrian and bicycle safety.

Both projects will be coordinated with the assistance of local administration, courts, engineering, and educational personnel under the direction of Captain William Cann of the San Bruno Police Department.

Projects are intended to become an integral part of the statewide program to reduce deaths, injuries and property damage resulting from traffic accidents.

The San Bruno projects are being made possible through the coordinated efforts of the state office of traffic safety and the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

Genovese Trial Set April 17

Dr. Gregory W. Genovese, 36-year-old Daly City dentist, pleaded not guilty to a charge of vehicular manslaughter before Superior Judge W. Howard Hartley Thursday in Redwood City.

Genovese appeared with his attorney, James Martin MacInnis, to enter the plea and to request a jury trial, which was scheduled for April 17 at 9 a.m.

The defendant, relative of two nationally known Mafia leaders, is charged in connection with the death of Karen Lee Peterman, 20, of Millbrae, who was fatally injured last September 22 when her car allegedly was rammed from behind by Genovese's car on Junipero Serra Freeway in South San Francisco.

It is charged by the district attorney's office that Genovese was driving under the influence of a barbiturate at the time of the mishap.

Donations

Gloria Dei Enterprises has contributed almost $600 to South San Francisco's Mater Dolorosa School and another $94 to Redwood City's American Traditional School.

The San Carlos-based organization is seeking to help private Christian schools with their financial problems through sales of household products.

Profits from the sale of those goods go to participating schools.

'17 D.C. Classrooms Illegal'-D.A.

By FRANK LaPIERRE

Portable classrooms at a Daly City elementary school were obtained and installed in violation of existing state law, according to San Mateo County Dist. Atty. Keith Sorenson.

In two related opinions handed over to the Jefferson Elementary School District's Board of Trustees last week, Asst. DA Keith Breon noted the lease-purchase of 17 classrooms violated nine sections of the state education code.

He said any structure purchased for a longer period of time than three years must have the written approval of the Department of General Services and plans of each unit must be certified by the state.

"To date no approvals have been requested or obtained from the Department of General Services," Breon noted.

His investigation, prompted by a letter from Trustees Dorothy Adams and Beverly Forrester, said no architect, structural engineer, or inspector had been hired by the district to inspect the structures. And no plans had been submitted to the State Department of Education for approval.

Breon listed four points that must be followed "to bring the relocatables into line with the law."

Mrs. Forrester said the issue was first brought to her attention when a change order involving an additional $8,000 for installation of the structures was learned by the Board.

The additional funds were necessary for concrete foundations, Asst. Supt. Roger Barthuli informed the trustees.

Barthuli informed the district attorney earlier that original contracts for concrete foundations for the classrooms at Fernando Rivera School had been included in the bid but were later dropped because the lessor — Speedspace — refused to go along with the foundations in its bid.

Rather than throw out the Speedspace bid, school district trustees agreed with a recommendation made by Barthuli on a change order on Aug. 7, 1971. This change order included foundations and Speedspace was directed to construct the foundations.

The change order was a violation of current bid practices, the opinion states in citing precedent actions.

Breon offered alternatives the board should have followed.

JESD superintendent Frank L. Greenwood, in an apparent move to assure parents their children were not in any danger of being in unsafe structures at the school, said later:

"By no stretch of the imagination should anyone unfamiliar with the units believe they are substandard or unsafe," Greenwood said.

Both Forrester and Adams had earlier told parents attending a trustees' meeting that the classrooms should have two doors instead of one because of square footage size; that the main power switches for a shop class are behind a wall in another room, and; that the art classroom has no water.

"These structures we are dealing with are standardized relocatable units developed and built from standard design approved by the State of California," Greenwood said. "They are built on assemblylines in a central location (Santa Rosa), transported and placed on the site."

Specifications for such buildings are developed by licensed architects and structure engineers, Greenwood explained.

He said hundreds of these units can be found throughout the state.

Why then the requested opinion from the District Attorney? Greenwood was asked.

"The only reason these particular units are under discussion at the present time is because of an interpretation of a code section relative to their leasing," Greenwood answered.

The code stipulates that any building leased by a school in excess of three years must be reported to the state.

"Roger Barthuli interpreted that to mean that state approval was not needed until the end of the three year period or if the district opted to buy the units before that time," Greenwood said.

Cable TV For Meadows

Cable television will come to Millbrae Meadows in about three months, Millbrae's City Councilmen have been told.

That's when the first homes will be hooked up, in accordance with a contract the city has with Nationwide Cablevision.

Homes in Millbrae Meadows, the part of Millbrae with the worst TV reception, will be the first to be hooked up. Some 400 homes, of the 900 residences in the Meadows, are expected to be connected to the cable, within 60 days after service starts.

Mayor James O'Connor said cable television must be available to the remainder of the city, within one year.

The Council set February 29 for a special meeting to review the city's proposed long range capital improvements plan, now being studied by the Planning Commission.

Citizens are invited to the special meet, said Mayor O'Connor. said the city is now choosing an architectural firm to create a city master plan, at a proposed cost of about $30,000.

Pacifica Requests A Grant

An open space application for a $40,000 federal grant toward development of Pacifica's Frontierland Park was to be sent to the Department of Housing and Urban Development last week.

Council members February 1 approved of the application, and in essence also agreed to spend $21,900 in architectural fees to draw up plans, although final approval of this was held over until the next official council meeting.

The council met that night in joint session with members of the city's parks, beaches and recreation commission.

In approving the seeking of federal funding, the council had some disagreement as to where matching funds should come from.

It was recommended by the PBR commission that the city utilize six men who had been hired under the federal Emergency Employment Act and use them for a period from May through August.

According to PBR director Richard Burton, this use would qualify for credit of $20,000. It was suggested that since the federal government pays these individual's wages, the city would in effect be getting their services for nothing on that project and would be saving $20,000.

Opposition came from Councilmen Stan Farber and Nick Gust, both contending that it wouldn't be fair to use services of people who were hired to do "catch-up" work throughout the entire city on just one job.

Final decision was to take a matching $40,000 from the city's Frontierland Fund. Councilman Dan Modena and Mayor Grace McCarthy voted against that decision.

The total estimated cost of actual work to be done under the first construction phase is $90,385. It would include development of the upper and lower meadow, Yosemite Drive picnic area, Yosemite Drive landscaping, the park entry way and design.

Councilmen also had a difference of opinion on the hiring of architect Jack Buktenica. Final decision will be made at the next regular council meeting.

Two proposals had been submitted. One was to hire him at six per cent or $21,900 to complete working drawings for the first $365,000 worth of construction.

The other was to contract for $100,000 in drawings at a standard ten per cent rate or $10,000.

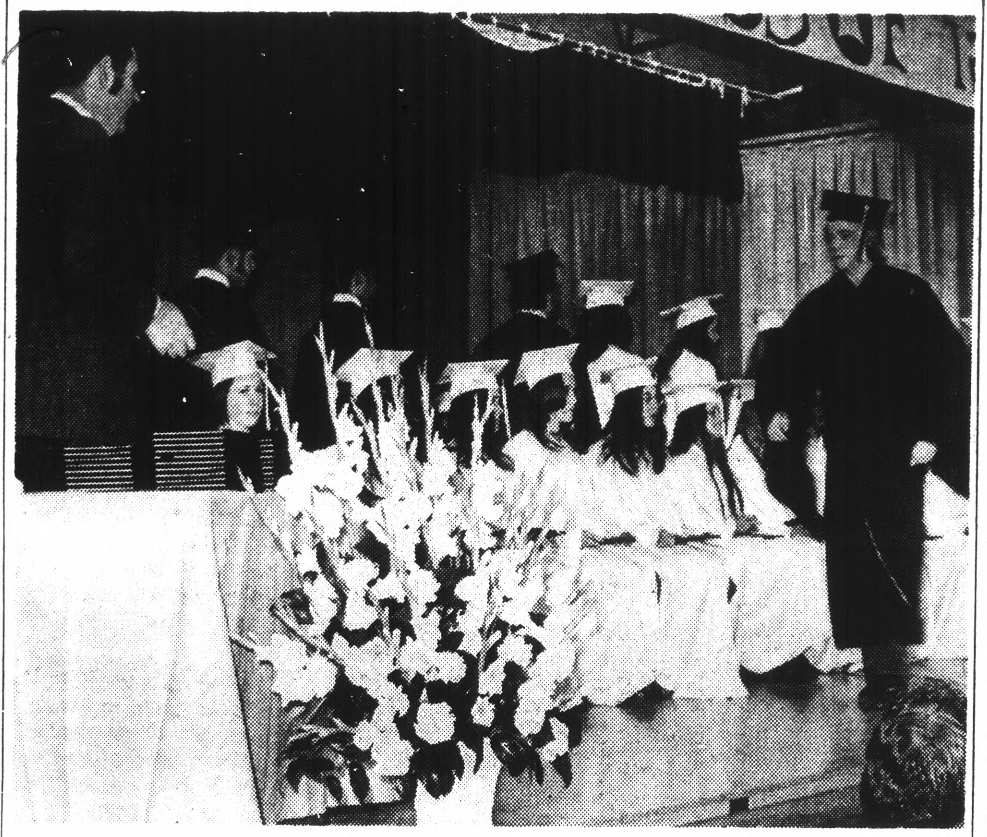
Councilman Nick Gust said, "We should hire him to do a $100,000 design at six per cent." Gust's concern was that the city doesn't have the immediate funding, nor does it know if or when it will obtain enough funding to complete the park.

His point of view was overruled (he even voted for the first proposal) when the majority felt it would be desireable to get complete drawings for the six per cent lower rate while keeping a continuity in the design.

Councilman Stan Farber said he wants a timetable of actual construction. PBR director Burton said the city may be ready to go to bid May 1.

ROAD LITTER

Litter on the road, reports the National Automobile Club, has caused 1,068 accidents in one state alone.



TRUSTEE Al Teglia of Daly City presented diplomas at last week's commencement at Terra Nova High School, Pacifica, for mid-term graduates. Serramonte High, Daly City, also conducted mid-year rites. Other schools in Jefferson Union School District, however, reported that students decided to wait until June to graduate with the regular class. (Post Photo)

2 Authors in Millbrae

The Millbrae School District now has two recently published authors on its staff. They are Mrs. Sherrie Epstein, psychologist, and Frank Moshier, head of the English Dept. at Taylor Intermediate School.

Mrs. Epstein's book is entitled, "Child Development Through Literature," and is published by Prentice Hall. It is co-authored by her brother, Dr. Elliott D. Landau, Professor of Child Development at the University of Utah, and by Mrs. Ann Plaat Stone, English teacher at Hillsdale High.

Mrs. Epstein says she got the idea when she and Mrs. Stone were officers at a nursery school, and began to collect stories pertaining to child development for discussion with other parents. She feels that the literary artist can portray children as well as a psychologist, and cites stories that are almost like case histories.

Her book is designed not only for the teacher in training, but for nurses, teacher aides, social workers, parent groups, and all those concerned with the development of children. To write the book took about two years, with the three co-authors sharing the tasks equally. Among the chores was that of writing to each of the authors selected from numerous anthologies, to be included in the book. To get the author's permission, sometimes lengthy correspondence was necessary.

The book traces early development; personality, emotional and intellectual development; communication; the meaning of play; the handicapped child; home, school and societal influences.

With the publication of "The Films of Alice Faye," Frank Moshier gained recognition as the top fan of the blonde star. He even has a special license plate, 'A. Faye.''

It all started when he was nine years old, back in 1938. He says that there was something warm and wonderful about her that captured his interest. He has seen some of her movies as many as 30 times, and has been able to see her pictures, and still be interested in her.

Frank describes her as a quiet, unassuming woman, who has been married to Phil Harris for 30 years and is the mother of two daughters, and grandmother of four children. She was born in a poverty-stricken section of New York City, and after brief stints as a chorus girl and band vocalist, became a star.

Frank's 182 page book contains over 250 illustrations, plus complete resumes of the films of the star, who was in her heyday in the 1930's and 40's.

collecting her still shots throughout the years. He toyed with the idea of writing a book about Alice Faye for several years, then met her and toldher about his idea. He says that Alice Faye was surprised that today's audiences would want to

After the excitement of this book dies down, Frank Moshier is planning to write mystery novel for young people.

Crestmoor Over Cap-Upset MPL

By TERRY FREETHY

The Crestmoor High basketball team came to the Capuchino gymnasium Friday with all its players, managers, and coaches; some cheerleaders and even a few fans, but what they forgot to bring was their 1-6 record.

Capuchino tried to remind the Falcons of the implications of that record but Crestmoor wouldn't listen; they upset the Mustangs in a cliffhanger, 57-54.

"The kids really wanted it," exclaimed the exhuberant Crestmoor coach, Pete Pontacq.

"It's the first time we've come back in a game. We can usually stay close to a team for a while but then something goes wrong and we fall behind. I think that our clutch foul-shooting won it for us."

One of the keys to the Falcon success was their patience against the Mustang 2-3 zone.

"We thought we could get inside the zone, because of the way Capuchino plays behind our players," commented Pontacq.

Crestmoor worked the ball around until they found an opportunity to dump it inside where they could get an easy shot or draw the foul.

That was the only way Crestmoor could counteract the hot-shooting of Rob Silver. Silver was unstoppable in the first half; he connected on any shot he chose to put up. He racked up 20 points by halftime.

With the other fine shooters Capuchino has, some fans thought the Mustangs were on course for a 100 point night, but such was not the case. Some good Falcon defense held the other gunners to an astonishing total of 11 points.

This was another major factor in the Falcon upset; the fact that they could keep the other four Mustang players far below their averages allowed them to keep close despite the torrid shooting of Silver.

Capuchino went into the locker room at halftime with a slim 31-25 lead.

In the second half the crowd suspected that the Mustangs would run Crestmoor right out of the gym, as they had done against so many other teams.

But the Falcons refused to yield. They gave Mark Rosekind the task of stopping Silver. He responded enthusiastically and held Silver to nine second half points.

Mike Galvin did pick up the scoring slack but the Falcon defense still kept the other members of the team from finding the basket.

With 2:50 remaining Crestmoor's George Ama was involved in a three point play which put his team ahead for the first time, 53-52.

But a steal and a bucket by Galvin gave the lead back to Cap. A pressure free-throw by the Falcons' Bill Shaughnessy tied the score.

Then two clutch free-throws by Ama made the score 56-54 with 1:09 left. With 12 seconds left the Mustangs had a chance to tie the score. Silver's shot fell short but Cap grabbed the rebound. Before they could get up a shot they were called for travelling.

Crestmoor's Larry Foster iced the game with a free-throw with just three seconds left.

. . . And the Wind swept through San Bruno.

Blowing through the Mid-Peninsula League basketball season like a re-enactment of Sherman's March to the Sea, the Mills High Vikings took their 17th win in a row Wednesday — a 54-38 beating of valiant but outclassed Crestmoor.

The Vikes remain undefeated in MPL play at 7-0, strengthening that ever-tightening death grip on first place. The Falcons drop to 1-6, and a playoff position now looks slightly out of reach.

"I'm happy with the way we played," said Mills coach Bill Smith. "We were down a little (a common condition in afternoon basketball) but I felt we pretty much controlled the game the entire way."

Crestmoor opened up in a zone, something which Mills hasn't seen too much of lately, and it appeared to give the Vikes some trouble at first.

Crestmoor could get very little going offensively in the first half, as the deadly Mills trap and man-to-man defenses forced enough turnovers to completely stall the Falcon attack.

Crestmoor constantly tried to force the action of the game with a fast-break attack, but the Vikes would not be suckered and slowed the game down to a pace where they could control it easily.

Jeff Sticks With Smith, Takes the Lead

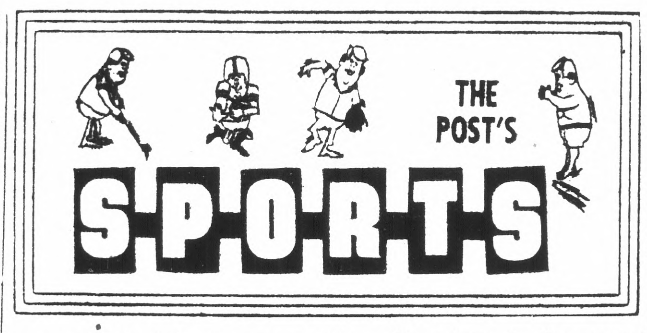
By JERRY LITTRELL

When you've latched on to a good thing there's no use fooling around with anything else.

With that credo in mind the Jefferson High School Indians pushed themselves into temporary possession of first place Thursday as the North Peninsula League went through a shortened schedule of basketball encounters.

The Indians downed co-first place holder Oceana, 46-31, while Westmoor ran by Serramonte, 69-56, and Terra Nova bested El Camino, 57-48. South bested El Camino, 57-48.

son the Indians dominated the Sharks to the point of embarassment. Ignoring any offense other than to get the ball eventually into 6-6 center Ken Smith, Jefferson controlled the pace from the outset, played tough defense to stop the Shark front line scorers and literally had things its own way from the opening tip.



The Indian offense was simple—work the ball around the perimeter until Smith could work himself free underneath. Then hit the senior pivotman for a telling two-pointer. Although he got "only" 24 points, and has had better total outputs, Smith's scoring was all the more evident because of the snail-slow pace of the first three quarters.

Oceana's offense got worse as the game progressed. The once friendly rims of the Shark gym (where Oceana was 7-1 last season in NPL action) time and again seemed to clamp tight as Oceana shot. Trailing 23-13 at the half, Oceana didn't score for the first four minutes of the third quarter and even then only managed one point until there were just 27 seconds left.

Two things kept the score as close as it was—Jefferson strangely went into a quick-pass stall offense midway through the third period and stayed in that offense the rest of the way and the Indians also missed 10 free throws, including four bonus attempts in the last quarter.

As cold as the Sharks were, the Westmoor Rams were just as hot. Playing possibly their best overall game of the season, the Rams exploded in the third period to do in the visiting Regents by 13 points. Westmoor twice built up leads of better than 20 points in the second half.

Guard Ted Grey had his best game of the year guiding the Westmoor fast break and setting up Gary Stoller and Gavin Long for their combined 42 points. But even with the quick pace of the game defense was the real deciding factor for the Rams.

Guard Jim Woods, who didn't score offensively but was invaluable on defense, blocked five Regent shots including a sensational blind-side swat that set up a three-point fast break that gave Westmoor its biggest lead, 23 points, in the third period. Center Leo Biederman, 6-6, added another quintet of blocks.

The Rams outscored the Regents, 14-3, to open the third quarter and blast open a six-point halftime lead to clinch the game.

It's getting to be an old story for El Camino. Time and again against any opposition the Colts will be in the game for three quarters only to have the fouth period completely elude them offensively and defensively.

Trailing by only two after three periods, the Colts fell to the visiting TN Tigers and John Racanelli's 21 points in a frantic fourth stanza. Again an El Camino starter, this time forward Rudy Castellanos, had to miss the game with an illness making it the ninth straight league game Coach Rene Herrerias has not had his starting five in the game at one time.

The victory kept Terra Nova's slim playoff hopes alive although the Tigers trail fourth-place Westmoor by a full game. Colt forward Mark Spivey, who has to be an All-NPL selection, again maneuvered inside often enough to gain 10 free throws and 25 points on the day.

Pressure situations are meat for good golfers, so it isn't any wonder that Mark Hillsinger was equal to the task February 1 at Jefferson High School.

Hillsinger is a scratch amateur golfer who whiles away the hours between rounds by playing basketball for the South San Francisco Warriors.

Since his insertion in the starting lineup the Warriors are 3-0 and are now tied for first place after last week's upset 61-58 win over Jefferson's Indians.

In fact, three teams are in first place now as Oceana benefited from the Warrior victory by slipping into a three-way tie with Jeff and the Warriors.

In other North Peninsula League action, Westmoor bombed visiting Half Moon Bay, 89-59; Oceana gained one-third of first place by downing Terra Nova, 61-42; while Serramonte beat El Camino in overtime, 57-54.

Considering the Indians had downed the Warriors by 20 in their first meeting last week's win was all the sweeter for Gene Mullin's crew. Psychologically speaking, the Warriors needed the win as both teams are assured of playoff spots and should eventually meet in the post-season playoffs.

Jeff had control most of the way and even built up an eight-point lead late in the third period. But guards Mason Larkin and Hillsinger went to work in the final period personally combining for 13 of the 14 Warrior points.

Hillsinger calmly scored on five straight free throws in the last three minutes despite a screaming partisan crowd while Larkin atoned for numerous ballhandling errors in the third period by instigating three straight steals in that span and converting them into three fast break layins.

Trailing by four, 56-52, South City made its move as Larkin hit a layin. Hillsinger added a charity shot, Larkin repeated his earlier shot and Hillsinger dropped through another two free throws.

Ken Smith

South City then led, 59-56, and Hillsinger really put things away with two more shots with 59 seconds remaining.

Westmoor came out firing and never slacked up in going for more than 20 points in each quarter in downing winless Half Moon Bay. Four of the five Ram starters hit for double figures led by Gary Stoller's 20 but game scoring honors went to Cougar center Pete Peterson with 26.

Oceana missed its first 16 floor shots and still only trailed by three points, 6-3. From then on it was uphill as the Sharks pulled into a three-way tie for first place with the 19-point win over Terra Nova.

Terry Johnston, Jim Ribera and Tom Harper all popped for double figures while the tight man-for-man defense stalled the Tiger offense before it got started.

Serramonte had to go an extra period but won its third game in the last four outings with the three-point OT victory over El Camino. Todd Stevenson capped an excellent afternoon by scoring four points in the extra period as the Colts were unable to cope with the Regent press.

Club Endspurt Event Sunday

Club Endspurt officials announced today plans for a Cycle-cross at Fort Funston Sunday.

The Daly City club's members will convene at the Westlake Park Clubhouse, before moving to Funston, at the corner of Skyline Boulevard and John Muir Drive, San Francisco.

Cycle-cross was described by a club spokesman as a bike race run on a course which leaves the road in places to cross grassy fields, dirt trails, creeks and sand dunes, with riders often forced to dismount to negotiate difficult parts.

Le Pacini

Humility and Obedience

RANDOM NOTES, THOUGHTS AND COMMENTS: When a reporter at that recent Candlestick press conference with Charlie Fox and Sam McDowell asked McDowell what weight he would pitch at this season and McDowell replied, "Whatever weight my manager tells me to pitch at." Fox did a beautiful double-take which was real, not an act — then smiled broadly and beamed at the assemblage. "How about that?"

Humility and blind obedience to managers evidently isn't normally in McDowell's repertoire, which is probably one reason why he found it chilly in Cleveland, especially under Alvin Dark. Fox doesn't require that kind of discipline — just win and you can do almost anything you want which is legal — and that is why he probably was surprised that McDowell would offer it, even if it is in the middle of winter and he may forget about it by April.

One thing is for sure, McDowell may not be the easiest man in the world to handle, but he's no primo, he's willing to work and takes winning very seriously. (He's pitched over 200 innings for six of the last seven seasons, and threw 194 the year he missed. He's averaged, in that span, about 265 innings per year.)

There's no stronger hint that he's that type of player than the fact that he says Jack Sanford, the former Giant bulldog, did more for him in his development as a pitcher when Sanford was Cleveland's pitching coach than anyone in his career with the possible exception of McDowell's father, an ex semi-pro baseball player and pro football player who is bigger than his son (6-6, 260 to 6-5, 220).

"And let me tell you about my father," said Sam, "he didn't spare the rod."

MEITHER, AS YOU MAY REMEMBER did Sanford ever. With hitters, we're talking about, no McDowell. McDowell said that he used to enjoy watching Sanford pitch batting practice in Cleveland. Big Jack could still throw hard, but not for too long because of the circulatory problem in his fingers, which had cut his big league career a little short. Nobody took a toe hold on Sanford in batting practice, because he still had the instinct to brush 'em if they inched up too close for his outside pitches.

"Sometimes," said McDowell, shaking his head lamentably, "I used to wish he could get out there and pitch for us in the real games. I really admired that man."

Another reporter asked McDowell if he would try to add to his repertoire of pitches (fast ball, curve, slider, change-up.)

"No," replied McDowell, "I have enough problems with the four pitches I already have."

And hitters have enough trouble with just one pitch that Sam has — the fast ball.

When asked if he thought the cold weather in San Francisco might bother him, he replied that there is no city in baseball colder than Cleveland in early season, and that the weather there had never affected his effectiveness.

For that, the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce should send McDowell a case of something, and so should the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce, although they'd probably have another kind of case in mind.

AND FOX SQUELCHED the rumor, once and for all, that Ken Henderson would be given a shot at third base. He will be an outfielder, says Fox, and in fact will be Willie Mays' replacement in center when the Great One is out of the lineup.

Charlie, you see, is frothing at the mouth to have Dave Kingman convert successfully to third base.

"He's captured the imagination of the entire organization with that power of his," says Fox, "and don't forget that he's about the third fastest and most agile player on the roster."

The Giants like power, and third is about the only place open for Kingman as an everyday player. Obviously he wouldn't catch, play short or second, or first—not as long as Willie McCovey's there.

He'd play regularly in the outfield only if Mays hung 'em for good. And that move isn't iminent. So third it has to be. Fox is quick to point out that the job is still Alan Gallagher's if he can hang onto it, but with everybody in the organization apparently pulling for King, it looks bad for Gallagher.

Also not to be discounted for the third base is rookie Chris Arnold, who almost made it at second last year. At the moment he's slated as a utility infielder, but while he plays second and third very well, he isn't a major league shortstop by any stretch of the imagination. If he can't make it at second — and we think he's very capable of beating out Tito Fuentes (Fuentes would make a more valuable utility infielder because he can play short very adequately as well as second and third) — then he could be a strong candidate for third.

And whatever happened to Jimmy Hart?

ART ROSENBAUM, sports editor of the San Francisco Chronicle, beat us to a reply to Pete Rozelle's poll on America's favorite sport. As he pointed out, what sort of results could Rozelle expect conducting a poll on America's favorite pastime during the week before the Super Bowl?

What baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn should do is conduct a poll during World Series week and submit it to Rozelle.

And besides, there's a rumor circulating — possibly planted by baseball men — that the poll of 1614 people was conducted in Green Bay.

IT HAS OCCURRED to us, during the past year or so, that statistics are beginning to mean less and less to us. Especially statistics for sport such as basketball and football, where teamwork is so vitally important.

There's no way, for example, a good shooter is going to score in basketball unless someone can get the ball to him. By the same token, just a fair gunner is going to compile impressive point totals if he's the only reasonably good shooter on a club and he's getting fed. No runner, no matter how great, is going to chew up yardage without a decent forward wall and a passer who can spread the defense out a little; and any adequate runner is going to pile up yardage with a super front line.

Baseball statistics as a whole may be the most valid individual statistics in the sports world. There still is the old one-on-one situation, pitcher against hitter, and neither one of them has a helluva lot of help if the pitcher can strike out the hitter, or the hitter can it one over the wall.

Dean Rally led a tenacious Tiger defense. Rally made numerous steals. Tom McDermott and Mike Ryan were outstanding for the Globetrotters.

The O.L.M. Tigers defeated the Holy Angels Dons, 33-18. Peter Teahan and Mike Restivo of O.L.M. machine gunned the Holy Angels defense. Each player netted eight points. Dennis Mahoney, the big board man for O.L.M., snared 19 rebounds.

TIGERS EDGE CARDINALS

THE PAL TIGERCATS moved into a first place tie in the Fourth Grade Eastern Division as they edged the OLPH Cardinals, 11-10. The Eastern Division continued to be a three team race as the OLM Bandits remained tied for first, with the Tigercats, by downing the Holy Angels Gaels, 24-2.

The Tigercats used the eight point scoring of Greg Huskins to defeat the Cardinals. Tom Giammona and Bruce Stephenson constantly riddled the Cardinals defense with their passes which set up Huskin's two pointers.

The OLM Bandits used their superior height and shooting to defeat Holy Angels. Jim Crowley and Larry Chiarella gave Holy Angels fits all day. Chiarella, scoring 12 points, and Crowley led OLM to victory.

In the Eastern Division it was the day of the great showdown as unbeaten O.L.M. Hawks and Beth Israel Judea met to determine league supremacy. As the game turned out, it was all Beth Judea as it jumped out to an 8-0 advantage over the Hawks and held the lead throughout, winning,29-0.

Once again, the key man for Beth Judea was Chris Eiserloh with 10 points and numerous rebounds.

Ross Herwitz played a good game at guard for Beth Judea.

For the Hawks, Jim Conway led the attack with four points and Mike Badgers played good defensive ball.

In a low-scoring contest, St. Thomas More prevailed over Holy Angels Baskethangers, 10-3. It was a case of Holy Angels not hanging around the basket, as their name implied they would, and St. Thomas More outrebounded their opponents on the average of 3 to 1. Jim McEnerney and Robby Walsh led St. Thomas More to victory. McEnerney scored six points from the inside, and Walsh hit four points with two 25 footers.

In the battle between PAL Clubs, Serramonte Tigers squeaked by the Chargers, 18-15. Mark Doran led the balanced scoring for the Tigers with five points and Keith Nolan added four. Greg Taylor and Steve Sylvia did all of the Charger scoring, with Taylor hitting 10 and Sylvia the other five points.

In the only central division game of the O.L.M. Colts outlasted PAL Serramonte Vikings, 20-16. Last-second antics by Kevin Mahoney iced the victory. Mahoney made two free throws with 10 seconds left to put the Colts ahead by four points. He finished with six points, aided by Tom McNab on defense.

Bobby Christman led the Vikings cause with eight points. Mark Evans grabbed numerous key rebounds.

The Lucky Six remains undefeated after squeaking past a stubborn Pedroni AC team by a final score of 40-36. The Lucky Six had excellent scoring balance again as Steve Vokenoff chipped in with 15 points and he was followed by Manfred Lee's 11 and "Jumpin" Joe Skaar and Norman Jang who each contributed 7 points for the winners. Al Spitzen claimed high point man honors in this game as he collected 17 points in a real offensive spree against the Lucky Six vaunted defense. The Bulldogs shewed up the Sixers in the first quarter and coasted to a 40-24 victory. The Bulldog offense was put into motion as the Jones boys each contributed 12 points to the winner's totals. Art Lande of the Sixers swished the nets for a total of 12 points to spark rallies that kept falling short.

In other action, the Netters defeated the Chiefs, 41-17. Lee Attabit scored 15 points.

Roy Rietz, with 13, and Dennis Flannery, with 11, were also big factors for the Netters.

The Gators, behind team play with everyone scoring at least three points, chased the Cavaliers away from the baskets and won, 41-25. Charlie "The Tar Heel" Smithson and Dan Hayes each scored nine points for the winners. Ron Bacolini of the Chiefs led all scores for the game with 14 points.

Crusaders Still Unbeaten in 6th Grade Central Division

6TH GRADE CENTRAL DIV.

Dave Howlett gunned home 10 big points as the OLPH Crusaders dropped the AAA Crusaders by a score of 31-17. The win was the fourth straight for OLPH and set them up for next week's Showdown battle with the Holy Angels Green Devils. Joe Bender assisted Howlett's fine play be recording numerous assists. John Rodriguez led the AAA attack with 8 pointt and Mark Freitas also played a fine game for AAA.

Meanwhile, Holy Angels' devastating full court press completely shut off LBYA's huge center, Brian Tuohy, as the Devils rolled to a 35-18 victory over the Globetrotters. Devil center, Marty Rea, continued his fine shooting as he poured through 16 points to lead the Devil attack. But the story of this game was Holy Angels' press led by the ball hawking of Mark Pretti, John Dillon and Joe Rushka. Keith Anderson and Brian Jones kept LBYA from being completely throttled.

In the final game of the week, the PAL Warriors got back in the win column by downing the OLM Panthers by a score 41-21. The return of PAL ace, Tony Cooper, was the key to this victory for the Warriors. PAL relies on Cooper to set the pace and without him, they are in trouble. But in the Panther game, Cooper was back to normal and PAL rolled to a big victory. Randy Perez was the big point man for PAL with 10 points. John Swanson and Ron Salvemini were outstanding for OLM.

Beth Israel Judea remained undefeated in the Sixth Grade Eastern Division as they barely got past the PAL Bearcats by a score of 27-22. Eric Layton pregot past the PAL Bearcats by a score of 27-22. Eric Layton prevented the Cats from upsetting Beth Israel. Layton's ball hawking and shooting kept the Cats from pulling out the victory. Keith Harband did a fine job on the boards for Beth Israel. George Perasso and Steve Sattler kept the PAL Bearcats in the game.

The Hunts Bruins stayed on the heels of Beth Israel as they clawed the PAL Wildcats 37-17. Once again the fine shooting of Paul Papageorge led Hunts' to victory. Papageorge scored 14 points and was aided by the 13-point performance of Mike McLennan. Danny Comaroto led the PAL Wildcats in scoring as he poured in 9 points.

The OLM Fogtrotters sharpened up their shooting eyes for next week's crucial battle with Beth Israel as they shot past the Holy Angels Demons by a score of 45-17. David Dovichi of OLM was the hottest sixth grade shooter as he scored 19 big points on an assortment of fine shots. Shawn Wallace also used his eagle eye to score 16 points and set the Fogtrotters up for next week's "Biggie" against Beth Israel Judea. Dave Guevara scored 10 points for Holy Angels and Jay Brignoli rebounded well for the Demons.

A great team performance by the AAA Rebels stopped the LBYA Lobos' express in 7th Grade, Central Division. Ricky Ananda played an exceptional game for the Rebels as he caused numerous turnovers and kept the ball moving to the hoop for the winners. The final score of this contest was 29-27 as Craig Garrity of the Lobos captured high point honors of the game with 13 big points. Steve Weston with 8 points was the top scorer for the Rebels in this closely fought game.

The Holy Angels Green Machine was well oiled on Saturday as it rolled over Hunt's Donuts 39-17. Paul Spadaro's passes shot holes in Hunts' defense and set up many of the Green Machine's scoring opportunities. Spadaro ended the contest with 5 points and numerous assists. Jimmy Thuener kept the Hunts team close with his excellent outside touch and ended the game with 9 points for the losers.

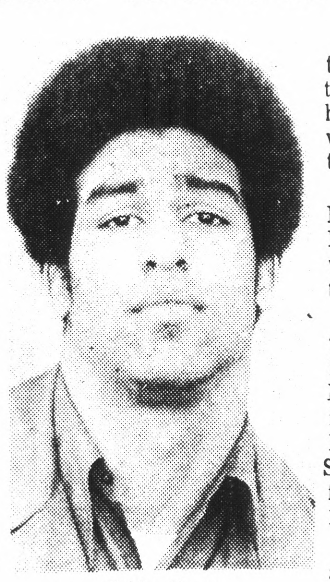
San Mateo Matmen Win Final Showdown

By DAN BERTELLOTTI



Dale Curry

The final dual meet of the season, the big showdown between Mid-Peninsula League wrestling unbeatens San Mateo High and Crestmoor, was full of star names.

But it was unexpected help from some unheralded grapplers that gave San Mateo a hard-fought 27-21 win on the Crestmoor mats Friday . . . a victory Bearcat caoch Charlie Douglas has waited a year for.

The Bearcats led the entire way, building up an early lead Crestmoor was never able to threaten. The first two matches told the story of the meet.

In the 95-pound category, San Mateo's Gene Moran rallied from a 2-0 deficit to take a surprisingly easy win. Mike Harney then followed with a pin that almost wasn't. Harney, one of the Cat's top guns, got the pin just as the buzzer sounded singalling the end of the match. That got San Mateo off to a comfortable 9-0 lead.

Crestmoor's Ron Puinti then won an easy decision to narrow the gap. Then came the prize match of the night. Gary Stanton of San Mateo took on the Falcons' Bob Littlefield. Neither wrestler let the fans down, as they fought to a 1-1 draw. They both got one point for escapes. Neither could break the other down. They received a standing ovation for their performance.

Charlie Simon then came through with a high scoring win followed by Mickey Williams' decision. That gave San Mateo a 17-5 cushion.

Crestmoor had expected to get a pin from Mike Paul in 140's, but instead got only a 3-0 win. Both the 147 and 156 matches were rated toss-ups, but for an ultimate Falcon victory, Crestmoor had to win both. The Bearcats foiled that attempt, agetting draws from both Dan Howry and Dave Bryant.

Coach Douglas cited Howry and Bryant as being the main cogs in the San Mateo win. "Those kids really iced it for us," he exulted, emotionally exhausted after the meet.

San Mateo's Pete Yamashita then lost a last-second decision to Doug D'Anna and Crestmoor had a new life. The Falcons were down by six points with three matches left.

Crestmoor's Kevin won, but Ruane wasn't able to pin Irv Levikow and all the Cats needed was a pin from Dale Curry in the 191's to assure victory.

Curry gave Cat fans something to cheer about with a pin in only 1:23. Pandemonium. Few people noticed that the defending champ in unlimited, Bruce Stevens, took some of the San Maeo lustre away by defeating Jim Grimsley soundly 10-1.

In other MPL action Hillsdale and Burlingame both won, tying for third place with 3-3 records.

Hillsdale won a high-scoring meet over Cap 40-30. All the Mustang points came on pins, forfeits, or disqualifications — six of them. Paul Accinelli continued unbeaten, and for Hillsdale the Martin-Vegue brothers, Mike and Pat, continued their winning ways, along with Cap's John Copello.

Skyliners Even Up The Record

By JERRY LITTRELL

If one can have any faith in percentages, then Saturday night's Skyline College victory over visiting Santa Rosa JC was almost a foregone conclusion by halftime.

The Trojans evened their conference record at 4-4 with an uneven 72-65 victory over the Bearcubs, who sport a 1-7 league mark.

Skyline trailed most of the first half, but there never was a feeling of panic apparent among the players. Santa Rosa was sizzling the nets with a 60 per cent shooting average, mostly on driving lay-ins, throughout three-quarters of the first half and still the Trojans were trailing by only seven points.

One had to figure that when things evened up the Trojans were going to be in good shape, and that's just what happened.

No Trojan, save guard Matt Kriletich, was able to locate the bucket in that first half. But Kriletich more than made up for his teammates' lapse by searing through 20 points, most from long range.

Although he cooled off after intermission, finishing with 25 points, his early game heroics kept the Trojans within reasonable striking distance for a second half surge.

The Skyline offense finally got untracked in the second half while the defense did an excellent job of stopping the Bearcubs inside-cutting offense, which had earlier bothered the Trojans.

Santa Rosa was incapable of hitting from beyond 10 feet, and Skyline was beating the cutters for position on defense, so the Bearcubs' offense wasn't.

Skyline built a 12-point lead and held it until the last few minutes of the game, when twice Santa Rosa managed to close to within five.

Jeff Wellemeyer's offensive tip and fallaway eight-footer shot Skyline back into command in those waning minutes.

Santa Rosa seemed to give Skyline more trouble on the boards than any other visiting team this year. The Bearcubs featured a lineup that averaged 6-3, but they also sacrificed ballhandling abilities.

Bruno Mountain Dilemma

An "economically and socially sound" development on San Bruno Mountain may not be realized if additional acreage is earmarked for parklands.

This was the general feeling of some Crocker officials connected with the Visitacion Rancho development following joint meeting of the Regional Planning Committee of San Mateo County and the Parks and Recreation Commission last week.

Staffs of both public bodies proposed county acquisition of some 520 acres on the mountain with Crocker dedicating an additional 500-600 acres of open space lands.

"We are receptive to the idea of donating a substantial portion of land provided we are left with enough developable land to plan a viable, balanced community," Crocker's project manager, Frank Calton said.

Calton noted the staffs of the RPC and P.& R.C. have mapped out new plans whereby another 85 acres in the so-called "saddle area" have been proposed as parkland.

The staff proposal puts all of the parkland south of Guadalupe Canyon Parkway.

Crocker had suggested this area be included for development of a shopping center, according to plans shown to a meeting of LAFCO (Local Agency Formation Commission) in Daly City last month.

The three and a half hour long meeting co-chaired by Daly City mayor Bernard Lycett (RPC) and Redwood City councilman Herbert Petersen (P.&R.C.) adjourned after agreeing that further meetings with Crocker planners should be held.

It was felt that Crocker and county agencies can reach some sort of agreement on the property.

The staff is expected to report results of their findings to the P&RC on February 9 and the RPC on February 17.

John T. Brook Jr., director of the San Mateo Department of Parks and Recreation, said that the study group concluded that the park and open space element adopted in March, 1969 as part of the county general plan could not be achieved because of cost and implementation difficulties.

"Nor would the original concept have preserved the character of San Bruno Mountain," Brook said.

He said that the original parks and open space concept covered several different proposed parks areas in the county.

"This time we concentrated on the San Bruno Mountain area to develop a plan to acquire park land and meet county capabilities," Brook said.

He characterized the new concepts as not so much an "organized" park as the preservation of natural landscape and natural values and making them available to the people.

Brook said he felt the latest concept is superior to the park element now in the general plan.

Crocker's aims are not to build a subdivision around a park, but to create a new community, Crocker planner-architect John Badgley said.

Badgley said the development would also create new jobs, housing, schools, health facilities and recreational areas.

What worries these officials, however, is the fact that Westbay Associates withdrew their some 600 acres from the proposed development in recent days.

What Westbay's withdrawal will do to the overall plans of Crocker and the future of San Bruno Mountain cannot be judged at this time, one official noted.

Crocker's first proposed concept last year showed 170 acres of county and community park, plus 1,270 acres of reserved open space whose ultimate use was to be determined.

Subsequently, Crocker offered to up the park total to 440 acres plus a dedication of 480 acres, with other lands to be held in the "reserve" open space status.

Scenic Skyline 'Problems'?

The proposed Skyline Scenic Route, from San Francisco to Santa Cruz, could be in for some difficulties, according to Pacifica Councilman Harland Minshew.

During a joint meeting of the council and parks, beach and recreation commissioners last week, Minshew included a report on a meeting he attended of the Greater Highways Committee.

Minshew said there is a group (not fully identified) dedicated to fighting against such a roadway because it would lead to development of the coast.

"They look on this road as a subterfuge by Pacifica (the route is scheduled to follow the Portola Discovery Site) as an access to open the area.

"They'll fight it every step of the way," said Minshew. "They don't care what title (scenic highway or Interstate 380), they're against it."

Minshew suggested that the council go on record "assuring citizens a transportation system in and out of the city." No action was taken. The council already is on record favoring 380.

The road was initially proposed as a limited access road, and not intended as a main traffic highway or having every house have a driveway connected to it.

"EL CAMPO SANTO"

"El Campo Santo" served as the Catholic cemetery for San Diego from 1950 to about 1880.

Frigate at Serramonte Shop Center

A nine-foot long, 175-pound model of the frigate USS Constitution will be on display at Serramonte Center, Daly City, through February 21.

This model of the Constitution, better known as "Old Ironsides," has an overall length of 13 feet, a beam of 28 inches and height of 8 feet, 10 inches. Like the original, the model has 42 brass cannons for armament.

The original Constitution is the oldest commissioned ship in the U.S. Navy and is permanently berthed at Boston Naval Shipyard.

This model was designed and built by men in the Recruiting Aids Division at the San Francisco Recruiting Station.

The Constitution is being brought to Serramonte through the cooperation of the Navy Recruiting Branch Station in San Bruno.

Special Meet for SSF Commission

George Coulter, chairman of the Park and Recreation Commission for the City of South San Francisco, announced that a special meeting will be held Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the City Hall conference room.

This special meeting of the Commission will be to review the 1972-73 budget.

FIELD COURSE

FT. RICHARDSON, Alaska — Army Pfc Kenneth A. Kiser, son of Mrs. Margarete M. McGrath, 315 Weillington Avenue, Daly City, was one of hundreds of soldiers of the 172nd Infantry Brigade and its support units at Ft. Richardson, Alaska, to participate recently in a field training exercise named Ace Card Bethel.

Men of the Brigade's 75th Infantry (Artic Rangers) acted as enemy aggressors, while other units engaged them in simulated combat. The 23rd Infantry went into action by parachute, skis and snowshoes. Cannoneers of the 37th Artillery backed it up with their 105-millimeter howitzers.

Ace Card Bethel, held in the area of Bethel in southeastern Alaska, also involved elements of the Air Force and the Alaskan National Guard. The exercise provided training in air movement operations, personnel and equipment airdrop procedures, and aerial resupply and tactical support of ground units.

Less Use of Death Penalty

The death penalty, long a subject of difference, is now before the courts for serious judicial review. Under attack on constitutional grounds as cruel and unusual punishment, the death penalty is also the subject of moral onslaught. History shows that it is being used less and less, and that laws are being revised to eliminate it as an available instrument of criminal justice.

The case against capital punishment is imposing. Its value as a deterrent is questioned by impressive statistics. Retribution is unacceptable in a society that presumes to be civilized, and the barbarity of the act of killing can only be viewed with revulsion.

There are practical impediments. There is, indeed, the chance of killing an innocent man. Chance also plays an important role in deciding which guilty men will be acquitted or given some lesser sentence. Geography, local attitudes, competence of counsel and pure luck have too great an effect on this grisly lottery.

The importance of these factors alone in determining which men die is bad enough. Add to these the visible correlation between poverty and the death penalty and apparent patterns of racial discrimination in imposition of the death penalty in some states, and it becomes plain that modern America has been far from even handed in handling this ancient and ultimate punishment.

The death penalty has presented serious problems for the administration of justice. Cases involving its possible imposition are generally sensational and the drama of trial too closely resembles the Roman arena. The monstrosity of the penalty has unquestionably affected the entire judicial process as the courts have responded to the possibility of mistake by dislocating the orderly and speedy flow of justice. Little wonder, for error in a capital case is final and irrevocable.

In a sense, the institutional killing of a convicted man perverts the very concept of justice, for as the end product of a highly sophisticated system it brutalizes all involved and demeans the dignity of human life. It should, therefore, be sparingly and carefully used, and only the pressures of extraordinary circumstances should be considered as justifying its application.

Such circumstances, in my opinion, presently exist in at least one area. Modern American society is, at the moment, engaged in a fierce fight to maintain domestic peace, a battle which has, at times, taken the form of guerilla warfare, and reaches its ultimate expression with the killing of police. Until such time as this struggle is favorably resolved, every constitutional instrument that may aid society in protecting itself should be retained.

The killing of enforcement officers should be separately treated when considering the death penalty. These men represent us, and when one of them is wantonly slain, a part of civilized America also dies.

Those who propose abolition of the death penalty properly argue that the burden of proving its efficacy rests with those who want it retained. This, as to most cases seems reasonable. But an exception should be made in that class of offenses that involve open and vicious attack on free society itself. In those cases, the burden should be on those who would deprive embattled American civilization of any constitutional means of protecting itself.

Seen in this way, the Canadian way of handling the dilemma of the death penalty makes sense. There, it has been suspended for a five year period, except for the killing of policemen or prison guards. Our current constitutional and moral impasse might well be solved by the adoption of a similar position.

Samuel Chandler

'Belts on, Buttons Down'

What every mother should know about car safety is the subject of Edward D. Fales, "Belts On, Buttons Down."

He writes:. . . .

"What a wonderful mechanism a driveris, especially a driving mother. In the course of a few blocks she must respond to as many as several dozen different stimuli coming in rapid-fire succession: traffic signals, police, trucks, cars, people walking, signs, stores, painted street stripes, trees, posts, shadows, various alarms such as horns, doors opening, and turn signal.

"Not to mention the movement and inertia force of her own car. Not even an airline pilot has more to do."

"If you take this remarkable creature, drape a couple of loved and lively children around her neck, put her on an impossible schedule, assail her with pressures and plans, neighborhood worries, report card problems and doubts, and entangle her mind with plans for a four-course dinner for six, perhaps then add a menstrual headache, you have the astonishing complex we call a driving mother."

To this remarkable creature, Fales and the staff of the Boston Children's Medical Center dedicate seven chapters: General Facts About Mothers and Children and Cars, People-Packaging and Your Car, Discipline in the Car, The Short Trip and the Long Trip, Emergencies, and finally, If There's an Accident.

As part of the chapter on people-packaging there are two pages of illustrations that rate car seats, infant tenders, etc. The chapter on discipline in the car contains a whole section of family rules to govern such things as entering the car, opening the windows, standing in the car, touching the controls, and arguing.

Another section discusses carfights and how to handle them; still another answers the question of what to do when transporting the neighbors' unruly children.

The chapter on discipline ends with this sentence, "A car is like an airplane in flight." Too much is at stake for those in charge to tolerate even the slightest unruliness among the passengers whether they are yours or the neighbors' children. For this reason a wishy-washy parent who fails to demand obedience is considered a menace on the road.

A section called, "Before the Trip," suggests that mothers create a travel kit for each child within the ages of 2 to 12 years old. Fortunately, it lists items that should be in the various kits. The same chapter discusses what can be done while on the road, and presents games that can be played.

The chapter on emergencies is worth the time any parent I know can spend with it. Such things as sudden illness, hunger, car sickness, boiling engines, flat tires, and driving in bad weather are discussed.

The chapter on accidents is brief but full of useful suggestions. "Belts On, Buttons Down" is a storehouse of useful knowledge and suggestions. It should be widely read and understood.

Worse Than Walk Into the Sunset

Eskimos are known to have a unique way of solving the problem of old age. When one of their group can no longer contribute to the workings of the society, they can take a walk — literally. The person is left to wander off and die.

Although we more civilized people wouldn't send our aged on a one-way hike, neither do we want them cluttering up our life style, which is probably more brutal than letting them walk off into the sunset.

Case in point is the hassle in Pacifica's Fairmont section. Certainly it is no isolated case in this county. But it does clearly drive the point home.

In Pacifica, efforts by a young man named Hermann Rothenbusch to care for six old people in a residential area was voted down by four of six planning commissioners on a parking technicality.

The real reason appears to be that Fairmont residents, who vowed they have nothing against the elderly, said in no uncertain terms that they didn't want a group of old people living next door.

A Fairmont subdivision official declaration expressly forbids any use other than single family residential in the area.

But Rothenbusch, under present Pacifica codes, is automatically allowed to take in four elderly under a single family use without special permission. Taking in four hardly would pay the upkeep. And Rothenbusch is not denying his philanthropy to the aged is meant to be at least self sustaining.

The planning commissioners' decision, which could be considered a circus of events in itself, is scheduled to be appealed before the city council Monday night.

Two votes were taken on the matter by the same six commissioners. The first was 3-3 split. The second time around Commissioner Brad Pringle changed his vote based on the need for additional parking spaces because of two more residents. That's his prerogative.

But the interesting thing is that the maker of the motion on both occasions was Commissioner James McDonald, a Fairmont resident. His successful motion said in part . . . "the establishment, maintenance or use will be detrimental to the comfort, health and safety of persons working or residing in the neighborhood. . ." Just from this, it would appear he probably should not have voted, let alone make the motion, because of conflict of interest.

These things, of course, are matters Rothenbusch must argue before the council.

The far greater question for all to contemplate is, what are we going to do with our aged? Do we let them take a walk?

Admittedly, it's easy as bystanders to take a critical view at the Fairmont situation. We all know we may change our minds if it affected us directly.

Commission Chairman Lee Forster noted that when he voted to approve Rothenbusch's request. He said that when the time comes for him to put up or shut up, he hopes his actions speak as loud then as his words in favor of the two additional elderly do now.

Don't we all!

Member Tells 'Disenchantment'

How Effective Is the Grand Jury in County?

By FRANK LaPIERRE

The San Mateo County Grand Jury is an ineffective body that was originally set up to protect individual rights but is failing in its mission, a member of the 1971 Grand Jury said this week.

Sanford Friedman, a Daly City businessman, told how he became increasingly disenchanted with the Grand Jury system during his one year stay on the panel.

But he attended every meeting and agreed to whatever decisions the majority of the 19 members arrived at, Friedman said.

Many of the "shortcomings of the Grand Jury system" stem from the fact that the members, in most cases, get only one side of a story — the District Attorney's side — according to Friedman.

"How things seem to grow out of proportion when you hear only one side, or are presented evidence against a person without getting the whole picture," Friedman said.

A grand juror's appointment starts with uncertainty at what he is supposed to do, what is expected of him, Friedman explained.

"As the year goes by you get to know the people you are working with better. But at first you don't really know anyone and you certainly don't know what to do," he said.

"In this regard you look to the District Attorney for purpose and direction. And, again, after a period of initial adjustment to the jury, you tend to look at the man's office and not at the man," Friedman said.

Friedman's criticism was not intended to be leveled against any one person, he emphasized.

"My story is definitely not about an individual or office but concerns county policies covering such matters that I consider to be inept and non-existent," he said.

He accused the current grand jury system as exercising "selective justice" and being a formidable weapon in the hands of some people who "might use the Grand Jury to take out their jealousies and political partisanships."

"Being on the Grand Jury is an education," Friedman said. "You see all the shortcomings in the county. And the greatest shortcoming is the Grand Jury system itself."

What Friedman's major objection to was the methods employed by District Attorney Keith Sorenson "in using us to do his job for him."

Friedman cited recent investigations into the alleged misuse of county phones and cars by supervisor Robert St. Clair as "a good example of how the Grand Jury can overrun an individual's rights."

Early last year District Attorney Sorenson came before the newly installed Grand Jury with information concerning St. Clair's alleged misuse of a county car. The information was based on a newspaper story and involved supervisors (Mrs.) Jean Fassler, Bill Werder and St. Clair, Friedman said.

"We looked to the DA for direction in this matter," Friedman said. "He singled out St. Clair and left both Fassler and Werder out of the matter."

When St. Clair appeared before the panel in early 1971 the majority of jurists agreed that the DA should conduct the questioning.

"St. Clair had asked to appear before us after learning of the charges," Friedman said.

The charges leveled against the three supervisors were weak at best, Friedman ventured.

Friedman said he understood that if, for example, a supervisor was at an official function in Pacifica he or she had to return to Redwood City and pick up his private car before he could stop by their office or home to check on some private matter.

On the use of telephones the policy was even more confusing, he said.

But what puzzled Friedman most was the publicity St. Clair received during the investigation and the pressure applied by the DA through the Grand Jury to the former football player.

"Supervisor Werder had eight telephones hooked directly to the county government center (in Redwood City). They were disconnected wo years ago, I believe," Friedman said.

"Alleged misuse of county cars by the other supervisors was also hushed up. Why?" Friedman wanted to know.

There is a function and a purpose to the Grand Jury, Friedman feels.

"But how do you get it from people who are content to go along with everything a district attorney suggests. How can you select individuals to serve that are not politically motivated or are competent in law matters so they can think and act on their own?

"I am not suggesting that St. Clair did or did not violate existing policies. I am merely pointing up the fact that St. Clair took a good raking from all quarters while others I considered to be in the same boat were hardly heard from," Friedman said.

"This is what I mean by 'selective justice'," Friedman explained. "The Grand Jury, guided by a District Attorney, can conduct investigations of any citizen, they can question persons without filing formal charges and they can order the DA to indict, often with very little evidence."

In the proper channels the Grand Jury is a protector of individual rights. In the wrong hands it is a destructive weapon, Friedman said.

An 'Exclusive Franchise' Offer

QUESTION: I have been contacted with an offer of an "exclusive franchise" in the sale of Walt Disney toys and other Walt Disney licensed merchandise. Do you have any information on this?

ANSWER: Walt Disney World has warned the public to be wary of advertising and personal sales representatives in which exclusive franchises and distributorships for such merchandise is offered.

Disney officials state that copyrighted characters of Walt Disney Productions and certain segments of Walt Disney World are licensed to legitimate manufacturers for use on their merchandise but neither Walt Disney Productions nor Walt Disney World Company offers or sells franchises or distributorships with respect to them.

QUESTION: What is a Persian rug?

ANSWER: To be rightfully labeled, a "persian" rug must have been made in Persia (now Iran). This may sound self-evident, but the fact remains that too many people assume that Oriental and Persian rugs are the same. True Oriental rugs are made by hand of individual construction and design in sections of the Orient and Asiatic Europe. Look for the label. It is not difficult for unscrupulous rug auctioneers to unload substitutes for the real thing at exorbitant prices. Imported rugs must be labeled with the name of the country where they were processed and manufactured.

QUESTION: I have been having problems with the refrigerator in my new mobile home. The dealer I bought it from says I must go back to the manufacturer with any complaints. Is this true?

ANSWER: When purchasing a mobile home every effort should be made to hold the dealer responsible for all equipment and its satisfactory performance. This agreement should be in writing and made a part of the final sales agreement. If you do not have such an agreement the local dealer may disclaim responsibility for unsatisfactory equipment installed in the mobile home and any adjustments or honoring of guarantees will have to be done with the manufacturer.

Opposition to Scenic Road

SOMEONE (don't remember who) dropped by to say that mebbe the opposition to a scenic Skyline route between Pacifica and points south (Half Moon Bay, Montara, etc.) isn't as truly conservation-minded as it sounds.

The source asked, in essence and somewhat slyly as I recall, isn't it possible, just, that some mid- or south county politicos don't want to change the "balance of voting power" to the coastside by its eventual development?

Gotta think about that one fur a spell?

Same here.

A QUOTE IS A quote is a . . . (special section) — attributed to S. I. Hayakawa, president of S.F. State College: "Morality means a highly socialized individual choosing courses of action on the basis, first, of sensitivity to the needs of others, and secondly of knowledge of people and the world."

(Sorry, buddy, I just write 'em; YOU understand 'em.)

AND ANOTHER: "A voucher system is inherently sound because it is based upon the proven concept that a willing supplier and a willing buyer are certain to be more productive and effective than unwilling suppliers and buyers . . . (and it) eliminates one of the primary problems afflicting public education today, which is its remoteness and bureaucratization." — Sen. John Harmer (R.-Glendale), who introduced an experimental voucher system bill . . .

The Political Scramble On

THE SCRAMBLE IS ON — The news out of the Hilton Inn yesterday morning was that Daly City councilman Louis J. Papan wants to fill the Assembly shoes of recently announced Congressional candidate Leo J. Ryan, who announced last week.

Papan's entry into the race had been anticipated for weeks. Like others now popping into the primary circle, Papan was only waiting for Ryan to announce.

Close on Papan's heels is a fund-raiser for San Bruno Councilman Tony Governale on February 12. We quickly add here that Papan's affair at the Hilton Inn was not a fundraiser, merely his formal announcement.

NOW THOSE INTERESTED in such things can start ticking off the names of who's going to run and who isn't. Watch for recalled San Bruno Councilman Ted Long, JUHSD Superintendent Edward Morgan and (perhaps) former GOP candidate for the Assembly, Frank Spadarella.

We asked Spadarella if he intended to enter this year's race. His answer: "On the record I don't think so. Off the record I'm no sure."

By golly that Spadarella sure learned how to talk like a politician in the last couple of years.

P.S. ALSO WATCH for Millbrae Vice Mayor Bernie Esser to toss his Republican hat into the Assembly ring. But NO Supervisor Bob St. Clair.

BIG TURNOUT at the Mission Merchants Association installation dinner dance at the House of Parties the other night. Re-elected to another term (absolutely his last, he says) was Vince Merlo. Elton McGraw is the new vice president, while Dale Wilson is now on the Association's board of directors. Secretary is still reliable Elna Greenwood. Much applause to Elna and Bev Dikas for the work they did in arrangements for the gathering.

ONE FOR THE BOOKS—A new service station was just built on the site of an outdated facility at the corner of Poncetta and South Mayfair in Daly City. Our understanding is that it cost about $250,000 to wreck and rebuild everything.

It makes the entire area look better.

Here's the wringer: Because of one thing or another Pacific Telephone can't put in a line.

Question we ask: How cum they had a phone before? Or shouldn't we ask about such things?

HAPPY NEW YEAR, Chinese New Year that is. This the year of the Rat. Supposed to be a prosperous year we understand. It looks like it will be for at least one friend of mine, Tommy Toy, of the Imperial Palace restaurant in downtown Chinatown (that's where "Flower Drum Song" was filmed). Tommy is scheduled to show off some special dishes along with pieces from the private art collection of the Imperial's partowner, Mr. Yuey, on the Dinah Shore telly program later this month.

GOOD NEWS, GOOD FOLKS—Sup. Court Judge Frank Blum is home A-OK after a checkup at Mary's Help Hospital for dizziness . . . Al Serino of the scavenger empire is home after ditto . . . D. C. City Attorney Al Polonsky is home after tummy surgery for the dreaded of all executive ailments — ulcers . . . and engineer Bill Chapman and former JESD trustee Frank Monte back after a weekend romp in the Donner Lake area show with a local reporter — not me.

INSTANT JUSTICE — A woman rape victim in San Bruno was sent to the hospital for treatment and confirmation of the crime. It was established that the victim had indeed suffered the indignity . . . but may have punished her attacker. Doctors discovered she had a venereal disease. Shame.

LOCAL JUSTICE—A young visitor from West Germany, visiting San Bruno with her parents, was cited for a traffic violation. The judge ordered the girl to clean up the park instead of fining her. Her parents thought the punishment fitted the crime and pitched in to help her. Only in America!

I'M NO MOVIE CRITIC but I know what like and I like "Kotch," starring Walter Matthau. The story is about an old man in his twilight years living with his son, daughter-in-law and grandson. There are two things Mr. Kotcher lives for — his grandson and watering the yard. He also likes people, symphony music on his stereo and children. Especially children.

Kotch gave me a new dimension of thinking in regards to our senior citizens. Lonely, wanting badly to be needed and understood, alert and knowledgable was how Mr. Kotcher came through to me on the screen. I believe that it is a true characterization for today of today. And, thanks to Matthau, I can better understand the indifference and borderline contempt which often is showered on our senior citizens.

FROM START TO FINISH "Kotch" is very much alive. It has a most clear message. Why in heaven's name the critics have panned this fine effort is beyond me. Perhaps they see it as some sort of a mirror on their own dealings with the elderly. God forgive, I did. If you want to understand better what I mean, it will cost $2.50 while it stays at the new Plaza theater at Serramonte.

ONE MORE PLUG—The new Plaza I and II theaters are the last word in comfort. One theater has 750 seats and the other ONLY 600.

IT'S THAT YEAR again when we conduct our straw poll of candidates. Which one of the candidates will grab a seat in the races this year? Let me know and we'll keep a running tally. Write me at 205 West Angus Avenue, San Bruno 94066. Vote early and often.

Prison Term Recommended For Student

A prison sentence has been recommended for George Patterson, the 21-year-old Skyline College student who pleaded guilty to an attempted arson charge, it was revealed in court Friday.

Deputy District Attorney Stanley Poling made the disclosure whilt opposing a motion by Patterson's attorney, P. L. Shelton, for a postponement of sentencing to allow time for the defendant to take a lie detector test.

Poling said he doubted that the test would be able to support the defendant's contention that he did not intend to set the San Bruno Herald building afire when he threw a firebomb onto the roof last May 17 but that he only intended the act to be a "symbolic gesture."

Poling, noting that Probation Officer Richard T. Mallon has recommended that Patterson be sent to prison, urged that the postponement not be granted but that the defendant be sent instead to the state prison facility at Vacaville for a maximum of 90 days for an evaluation to help determine the ultimate sentence.

Superior Court Judge Robert D. Miller granted the continuance to 9 a.m. March 17 but warned Patterson that it will be the last delay.

Charges of arson and possession and cultivation of marijuana yere dismissed after Patterson pleaded guilty last November 15 to a felony count of attempting to burn property. The penalty for the crime is one to two years in prison.

Doctor Jailed Arrested on Sex Charges

San Francisco police Friday arrested three men, including a San Bruno jail physician, on a sex crime charge which allegedly occurred at a Golden Gate Park public restroom.

Dr. Richard D. McGhee, 35, of 201 Edgehill Drive, was arrested along with a Skyline College music professor and a salesman shortly after noon when two mounted policemen reported they spotted the trio participating in an unlawful sex act.

Sheriff Richard Hongisto said he is conducting a full investigation of charges lodged against McGhee, Ronald H. Ehlers, 34, of 688 Fifth Avenue, San Francisco and Carrol W. Moody, 30, of 1959 Thirty-first Avenue San Francisco.

Patrolmen Edward Edney said he happened to look into the restroom through an open window as he walked toward the entrance of the building and observed the incident.

Edney was on patrol in the area near Forty-first Street and John F. Kennedy Drive with patrolman James Hennessy.

Although the policemen ordered the men to "freeze," McGhee and Moody ran from the toilet and both officers gave chase. They were apprehended a short distance away.

McGhee and Ehlers, a professor at Skvline College, were charged with a felony while Moody received a lesser misdemeanor charge.

Sheriff Hongisto praised McGhee's work at the San Franciscoi County Jail in San Bruno where the doctor has been treating county jail inmates for the past month.

The sheriff said he will take no action on the matter pending a complete investigation of the incident.

Bus Service For Skyline

The State Public Utilities Commission has granted authority to Northgate Transit Company to adjust and extend its present bus routes to provide service to Skyline College.

Many traveling dignitaries stay at the Hilton Inn, famous for its fine accommodations and excellent cuisine.

ANNUAL ENGAGEMENT — The Mills Brothers are chalking up their 24th annual engagement in the Fairmont's Venetian Room, through February 23. There just isn't any one word that can be used to sum up the warm feeling that comes over one when this familiar threesome, Herb, Harry and Don, come on stage to sing old favorites such as "Paper Doll" and "Poor Butterfly," plus a prize selection of their latest hits.

French Dinners Moderately Priced

When you consider going out to a "good" French restaurant, you usually think of it as being expensive dining. But diners are finding that just the opposite is true at the new Le Parisien in Burlingame. Owner Michel Janicka's excellent dinner menu is quite moderately priced, with most entrees being in the range of $4.25. This price also includes soup, salad, dessert and coffee . . . Westwood is the group drawing big crowds to the Deacon Brodie Tavern in the Royal Coach Motor Hotel in San Mateo. Featured vocalist with the group is blonde Melina Ellison, a sheer knockout when it comes to talent and looks . . . Sunday dining has become very popular at the Golden Steer, Redwood City. For years, Owner Roy Devincenzi and his staff "rested" on Sundays. Recently, however, and due to customer demand, Roy was "forced" to open for Sunday restaurant business. Now it's one of the busiest days of the week for the efficient crew . . . Many stars from Hollywood make Doros their dinner haven when in San Francisco. The Holiday award-winning cuisine under the direction of Doros' master chef, Paolo Bermani, and Don Dianda's many rare wines attracts the stars.

Enjoy View From A. Sabella's

Day or night, the vistas framed by the picture windows encompassing A. Sabella's has many a guest remarking that his visit would be worthwhile even if he paid only to enjoy the view of Fisherman's Wharf and its activities. Nightfall, with its patterns of lights, brings the aura of romance . . . Try the excellent Rack of Lamb Bouguetiere for two at the Shirt Tail in Palo Alto. Chef Jack Hunter's specialty, made from the rare nine rib cut, is served with continental and Hollandaise sauce with soup or salad, mushroom caps, potato border, vegetables and beverage. Petit fours dessert is also included in the dinner price.

Papagayo Room Well Organized Food-Wise

The well-organized menu at The Papagayo Room, which has one of the most spectacular views from its dining room of the Pacific Ocean at Rockaway Beach, gives the Mexican name for each selection and a detailed description. A fine introduction to Mexican cuisine for the uninitiated is the Combinacion Grande, a combination that includes enchilada, taco, chile relleno, rice, beans and salad. A variety of Mexican desserts are offered, such as Papagayo Flaming Dessert and Coffee Papagayo. New hours at The Papagayo Room: Wednesday through Saturday, 4 p.m. to 11 p.m.; Sunday, 2 p.m. to 10 p.m. . . . The chef at The Moonraker, located just upstairs and also overlooking the shores of Pacifica, is particularly expert with his sautees, and you might especially appreciate his Veal Scalloppine Marsala, Chicken Cacciatore Milanaise and Frog Legs a la Provencale. Other entrees justly popular are Morro Bay Abalone Steak and New York Cut Sirloin. The ocean air endows anyone with an appetite appropriate to do them justice . . . The many banquets held at Nick's Restaurant (located across the street) often get under way in the friendly bar-lounge, where your favorite potables are dispensed. The extensive menu covers the many meal possibilities — from 10 a.m. breakfast to late snacks. Imagination and skill are combined here to lift every item above the ordinary.

Frank And Fannie Torres Back From Vacation

After their annual winter vacation, Frank and Fannie Torres have returned to their famous Montara Beach Hotel and Restaurant, and will re-open for business Friday, February 11. Their return is great news to the countless numbers who frequently partake of their many Peruvian dishes . . . Almost everyone knows that Park Avenue Tours is the ONLY way to go to Reno or Lake Tahoe. That is, if you're concerned with money-saving bonuses. But did you know that Park Avenue Tours can also plan your trip to such destinations as Las Vegas? It's true. Let Park Avenue Tours take care of all the details. What better way to plan a relaxing vacation! . . . Everything on the menu at Vince's Italian and Seafood restaurant is a specialty, from the appetizers to the casserole dishes and desserts. The menu is unusually extensive — a complete selection of seafood, fowl and choice meats complements the many Italian creations, which are prepared by a staff of expert chefs. Luncheon specials are served Monday through Friday, 11 a.m. to 2 p.m., with the entree changed daily. Hors d'oeuvres are served in the pleasant surroundings of the cocktail lounge 5:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. nightly.

NITERY CIRCUIT PERSONALITY — The name "Judy" is well known on the Peninsula, especially if the last name is Salm. Few persons have ever known her last name, as "meet me at Judy's" has been the cocktail byword. Judy's latest club adventure is aptly called "Judy's Saloon" and is located at 380 El Camino Real in Belmont. Just a "sprint race" from Bay Meadows race track in San Mateo, you'll find many "horse specialists" gathered here for before and after-the-race cocktails and conversation.

Finocchio's Long The "Night Action" Center

Joe Finocchio of the world-famous San Francisco nightclub is the man who really started the boom on San Francisco's nighttime street, Broadway. When he moved his club to 506 Broadway 35 years ago, he blazed a trail which turned a quiet, little-known street in San Francisco's North Beach into a blaze of electric lights and night-life activity. Now, 35 years later, it is the busiest nitery street in the West, and Finocchio's is the very center of this activity, with four shows nightly. One of the featured entertainers is Carroll Wallace, who gained his first fame with the late Earl Carroll's great shows in Hollywood . . . Now that all the hunting seasons have passed, Enrico Romano has put away his assorted weapons and reels, but he is already thinking about where he'll be hunting in 1972. For those who are hunting good food, we suggest you take the overland route to the Coastside to dine at Romano's Italian restaurant, located in the heart of picturesque Pacifica . . . Phil Lehr's Steakery, in downtown San Francisco, was the sceen of many festive cocktail and dinner parties during the American Academy of Allergy Convention. Phil had been receiving long distance calls all week for reservations in the elegant Wellington Room.

Holiday Inn's Relaxing Atmosphere

Few lounges provide a relaxing atmosphere comparable to the Lancer Lounge at Fred and Jerry Rapp's Holiday Inn, South San Francisco. Just ask the many businessmen who congregate here every evening. Pianobar entertainment is offered nightly, Tuesday through Saturday, with Bruce Fox presiding. . . . Afterglow, a fine musical aggregation marqueed at Deejay's in Belmont, has been called one of the most exciting bands to appear on the Peninsula nitery scene . . . Sound Advice is the Tuesday-through-Saturday night band attracting scores of dancers to The Putter in Burlingame. Live entertainment and dancing are enjoyed seven nights a week . . . Live music and dancing are weekend features at Bob and Lloyd Cardoni's Half Moon Bay Inn. With the exception of Thursday, lunch is served through the week from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Dinners are served every night except Wednesday . . . When the doors to the Greek Taverna in North Beach open, then you know it's time to start to have fun within the confines of this super restaurant-night club. The Trio Orfeo provides sensuous music for the lovely belly dancers conjured up by the Haramis Brothers, who operate this ethnic entertainment spot. Nawal is the "honey bunch" performing Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights.

New Southern Has Ample Parking

Reno Donati, dapper co-owner of the New Southern restaurant in South San Francisco, wishes to remind you that there is plenty of parking space for dining guests located behind the restaurant. Because of the recent widening of El Camino Real in that area, the restaurant's front parking area was diminished . . . The Ben Jonson, an exciting restaurant in The Cannery, San Francisco, continues to grow in popularity. Individual cart service, massive pewter serving plates and water goblets are a special delight. The surroundings are in the Elizabethan fashion . . . Meals are served with a demi-loaf of home made bread at the House of Troy in San Carlos, and the bread is also available to take home for only 35 cents. And believe me, it's delicious! . . . Although food costs have gone up considerably in the past few months, Chuck's Steak House is one of the few local restaurants where menu prices have remained the same. And we're speaking of only the best quality meats and produce. Don't think appreciative diners aren't aware of this.

The first class began February 8 at 7:30 p.m. Enrollment is $4 for six weeks at $1.50 for single tickets.

This six-part course explores the basics of physical, emotional, social and intellectual growth patterns, focusing on such immediate concerns as how to handle discipline, sibling rivalry, the importance of play and sex education for the very young and effects of different marriage patterns on children.

Course instructor is Patricia Erickson, head of the certified Nursery School Program at Skyline.

A Canine Policeman

SSF's Gildo Friendly if You're Not on Wrong Side

By BOB PETERSON

Gildo is one of the South San Francisco Police Department's finest.

Angered, he can set a man down convincingly with one swift movement. But he isn't easily angered, and only once has he been known to really lose his temper.

Appreciated, he will show affection in return, often melting when receiving too much attention, as was the case this Sunday on a visit to Damien House.

Gildo, of course, is Gildo von der Hessen Hiede, the seven-and-a-half-year-old purebred German Shepherd canine cop.

He's scheduled for retirement in about six months, with a budget request for a replacement being submitted. Gildo cost $1200 trained. Aside from getting old (he's about 55 in human chronology), Gildo has contracted arthritis.

A favorite of all department personnel, Gildo's imminent departure is understandably giving his handler, Officer Gary Hopper, the most mixed emotions.

Hopper and Gildo have been inseparable for about three years. Gildo, in essence, is Hopper's dog. And that's the crux of Hopper's dilemma. He's hoping to be able to keep Gildo after the dog is retired from the department. There is a distinct possibility he may, according to Hopper.

It's somewhat of an irony the way Hopper and Gildo got together anyhow, for Hopper is not Gildo's first handler from the department.

Sgt. Stan Bennett used to be the anchor on the end of Gildo's leash, but as Hopper says, "He (Bennett) became so allergic to dog hair he couldn't breath."

Then came the touchy attempt to change handlers. Police dogs often don't adjust easily. But Gildo did. Hopper said the two officers drove Gildo out to an isolated area and "I just got into the driver's seat (of the station wagon that transports Gildo) and that was it." Gildo and Hopper immediately took up a lasting relationship.

It was obvious the exchange took effect smoothly as Hopper rattled off commands Sunday in a demonstration before a group of interested youth at South San Francisco's Damien House.

Hopper and Gildo generally patrol the city's industrial area on a night shift. But Public Relations Officer Ron Sullivan sees another use, as ambassadors of good will for the department.

This Sunday's "rap session" was the second at Damien House for the police department. Motorcycle Officer Mike Dickson had been there on another occasion to discuss motorcycle police work.

Sullivan also has started "rap sessions" in the schools of the city, already holding them at Southwood Junior High School.

But this Sunday's session was Gildo's, and unless "sprechen sie deutsch" you'd not understand the commands Hopper gives to Gildo.

All commands are in German. Hopper explains that the dog was trained in Germany. Gildo has a lineage of forty-seven generations to his credit. According to Hopper before an animal can be a police dog he must have a minimum of 42 recorded generations behind him.

Hopper gave no attack commands. No one who was trained in handling a dog in attack was there. That was reason enough. "There's a good chance even a man trained in handling an attack can be hurt," said Hopper.

Hopper said that the German police get first choice on police dogs and they usually take the smaller ones. "I'm not sure whether that's because they drive Volkswagens."

He said Gildo weighs about 85 pounds, which is smaller than the norm, although he eats a pound of ground meat and a pound-and-a-half of dry kibble a day.

Gildo's tracking demonstration in the Damien House backyard was less than efficient though. The youth's explained why. "He smells the cats," who generally frolic freely on the grass. But after some stern commands from Hopper, Gildo did retrieve his leash.

Hopper explained Gildo's good disposition in the line of duty with an anecdote about the time he was forced to bite a burglar suspect who wouldn't stand still while the dog circled around him.

According to Hopper, when officers finally took the man into custody, "Gildo walked up to the man and nudged him, as if to say I'm sorry I had to bite you."

Hopper says he always gives a warning "loud and clear" before he turns Gildo loose to search out a suspect. "His main function is to hold a person at bay, not to hurt, kill or maim. He will puncture the skin," said Hopper.

"He goes for an arm. If that's not available, he'll take a leg. One time, the only time I really saw him get mad, he lifted a man who swung at him and threw him to the ground in what seemed like one swift move."

With Gildo's retirement, Hopper said he would seek another aspect of police work, letting a new man handle the hoped-for new dog.

CROWD CONTROL is demonstrated by South San Francisco Police Officer Gary Hopper and his partner Gildo to youths at the South San Francisco Damien House. (Post Photo)

North County Roundup

A Few Surprises Seen as Area Candidates File

Filing deadline for nominations to city councils passed at noon Thursday in Northern San Mateo County.

In a political season already marked by the number of leading figures who have dropped out or shifted to other campaigns, the filing deadline also brought a few surprises.

Burlingame

In Burlingame, there are eight candidates for three council posts, those now held by Charlotte Johnson, Mayor Irving Amstrup, and Victor Mangini.

Amstrup and Mangini are seeking re-election. Mrs. Johnson announced that she will not.

Other candidates include Mrs. Dorothy Cusick, mother of four, who would have no competition in a race for prettiest contestant in the race. Her opponents are Planning Commissioner Thomas Sine, former Supervisor Adolph Harrison, contractor Donald Refvem, former Police Lt. Lorin Todd, and electronics specialist Harry Graham.

Unexpectedly, there is also a contest for the title of City Treasurer, a job the Council last year tried to eliminate, but they were overruled by the voters.

Mrs. Ida Coe, long-time holder of the job, announced that she is retiring. Her deputy, Flora H. Knight, is seeking the post, but she is being battled by Mrs. Ramona M. Martinez, an accountant of 709 Walnut Avenue.

City Clerk Herb White is standing for re-election, unopposed.

Millbrae

In Millbrae, former City Councilman Charles Yetter filed a nomination for City Treasurer, opposing Ed Rogers, who has held that post since before Yetter was on the City Council. Bitter words have previously passed between the two men, and they represent opposing factions.

Millbrae's City Clerk, Isobel Smart, is unopposed for election to her office.

William Glang is seeking re-election to the Council, but Mayor James O'Connor announced in December that he would not again try for his post. Three men are seeking election to the two Council jobs: former Planning Commissioner Don Cahen, Robert V. McAdam, and union leader Barney Spera.

South San Francisco

In South San Francisco, the council race for three seats is between seven candidates, including the three incumbents — Frank Mammini, Warren Steinkamp and Frank Bertucelli.

Challenging these three are Gordon Boblitt, planning commissioner, Terry Mirri, unsuccessful candidate two years ago, Mrs. Bette Higgins, housewife, and Arthur J. Connolly, postal clerk with his first attempt in South San Francisco politics.

City Clerk Arthur Rodondi is running unopposed for re-election.

Daly City

Youngest candidate in the Daly City council race is 18-year-old Sue McAllister, 438 Woodrow Street, former student body president at Jefferson High School. Also filing is Mrs. marie Taylor, of 176 School Street, real estate; a candidate in the last municipal elections; Adelaida de la Rocha, secretary, 683 Florence Street; Gus Sola, teamster, 31 San Miguel Avenue.

Three candidates have entered the contest for Daly City City Treasurer.

Anthony Zidich, the incumbent and manager of a Daly City real estate office, will run for re-election to the office he was appointed to on the early retirement of Joseph Lewkowitz.

Lewkowitz was forced to resign the post he had held for some 16 years because of business demands and poor health.

Also filing was Morris Tolson, a candiate for the council two years ago. Tolson, of 98 Palisades Drive, an employee of a local clothing firm, listed his occupation as "financial representative" for this years' race.

Meyer Bloom, accountant, of 27 Midvale Drive, filed for the post.

City Clerk Mrs. Anna Ohlendorf is unopposed this year.

Pacelli did not file for re-election in the upcoming municipal race although his fellow incumbent, Anthony Giamonna, will run.

There had been speculation in recent months that Pacelli, well known on many regional bodies including ABAG, League of California Cities (director) and the San Francisco Airport Access Project (Board of Control), would not run because of business commitments.

Giamonna, a Westmoor High School physical education instructor, was the first to file for re-election.

Also filing for the council is former municipal judge Paul Hupf.

Hupf, whose career with Daly City politics spans more than a dozen years, as a councilman, city attorney and judge, is presently on the city's Library Commission. He is a partner in the law firm of Hupf, Etcheverry and Blum in Daly City.

Another Daly City attorney, William Schumacher resigned his Jefferson Elementary School Board trustees' post in order to campaign for election to the council.

Schumacher, 34, is a 13-year resident of the city and came in fourth in the council race of two years ago.

A ten-year resident of Daly City, Mrs. Cathy Smallwood is also seeking election to the council. She is a widowed mother of two children and has been active in many community affairs.

Pacifica

There are nine candidates vying for two Pacifica council seats, with one new face a certainty because of the decision by Councilman Dan Modena not to seek re-election.

In addition to Modena's seat, the one being held by incumbent Grace McCarthy also is up for grabs. She is one of the nine filing, in hopes of succeeding herself.

Others in the race are Virginia Jaeger, council critic with a long list of civic duty credentials; Fred Howard, chairman of the Parks Beach and Recreation Commission; Vincent Lampedecchio, a 20-year-old pressman, and James Treanor, an educational researcher.

Also in the race are Anthony Dintcho, a podiatrist; Janice Fulford, a virtual political unknown; Aubrey Lumley, executive with a San Francisco firm, and John Geary, Pacifica realtor.

Three others who took out papers but did not file were Ray Karczewski, security officer; William White, a political unknown, and James McDonald, former planning commissioner.

Brisbane

Eight candidates will be vying for the two seats open in this year's city council race in Brisbane.

Incumbents Jess C. Salmon and Dr. S. J. Guardino will run for re-election. Salmon has been a councilman for some 10 years. Guardino is vying for his second term.

Also filing were Frank Doolin, hotel manager, 1150 Humbolt Road; L. T. Clark, locomotive engineer, 163 Visitacion Ave.; Paul Goercke, no occupation entered, 41 Margaret Road; Thomas Bayne, administrative assistant for AAA, 312 San Bruno Ave.; William C. Jacka, electrician, 820 Humboldt Road, and Ronald F. Harroun, no occupation entered, 107 Visitacion Ave.

Colma

The three incumbents up for re-election in Colma will be challenged by two persons — one a newcomer to the political scene and the other a former city councilman.

The incumbents include Wallace H. Honeywell, Earl Taylor and Glen E. Duncan.

This will be Duncan's first campaign for the elective office. He was appointed to fill an unexpired term on the council some three years ago. The appointement was subsequently challenged as being in non-compliance with the state election codes by residents of the city.

Also seeking election to the council is businessman Eugene E. Daneluz, and former councilman Fred Garbini.

Garbini is an automotive machinist.

San Bruno

In San Bruno, nine candidates, including one incumbent, will battle for two council openings.

Veteran councilman Maurice Hamilton will not seek re-election; George Corey will.

The challengers include John Bernard, a local insurance man; Doug Hawkins, a gymnasium operator; Orville Wykoff, a high school teacher; Leonard Sarkon, school trustee and a principal: Gary Mondfrans, 20-year-old junior at San Francisco State; Donald C. Phelps, 18-year-old San Jose Junior College freshman; Doris Christiansen, former owner of San Bruno Business School; Daniel P. Comaroto, co-owner of a motorcycle shop and Ruben Avelar, counselor with the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Another race will be taking place for the city clerk's post, with former councilman Dick Griffith taking on incumbent Carl Hultberg. No competition appeared for City Treasurer Martin Krumm.

'Game Night' At Oceana

The Co-Rec for February at Terra Nova in Pacifica has been cancelled, but today is "Game Night" at the Oceana Co-Rec. Table hockep, carooms, twiser, and funny bones are just a few of the games available. Regular activities will also continue in accordance with the T.B.R. policy of trying to offer something different at each Co-Rec.
